Architect Takes You on Tour of Remodeled Princeton High School

"From the outside, Princeton High will look just the same—but inside, it will be a whole new world!"

Architect J. Robert Hillier likes to follow that assurance with another assurance: he doesn't plan to gut the building; far from it. Cherished parts of the old structure will remain—rejuvenated.

A June referendum on the bond issue for remodeling the high school is everybody's aim and June isn't very far away. Before the referendum can be held, Mr. Hillier's plans must be approved by the state's Department of Education. Mr. Hillier and his staff are working fast, so they can build in the necessary time for state review.

"It's a big, complex program to review," Mr. Hillier points out, "and we want to be sure the state has time."

Student questionnaires are still being returned—"We've had a lot of great comments from students!"—and in a few weeks, school board and architect will go out into the community to get taxpayer reaction.

"We're going to the grass roots, to get ideas of what the school SHOULD be. We want everyone to have a part in it—not simply show them a plan and dictate to them," Mr. Hillier says.

"Structurally, the building has no real problems—its built very well. Mechanically old, of course, but take the boilers, for example: they have been beautifully maintained.

"But the building lacks a 'core'—a sense of 'place'," the architect continues. "The most popular places for students to gather are the Tower and the auditorium porch. But that Tower...! We need a nicer way to get people IN to the school, and to give the kids a place to smoke."

Mr. Hillier pulls out a big chart covered with colored circles representing "cafeteria," "industrial arts," and so on.

"It's the school, unencumbered by architecture," he grins.

On this chart, he shows how the parts of Princeton High should be related to each other.

"The library should be a core," he begins. "The Student Center, another core. There is great interest in the Interest Center concept. In the math one, for example, we have games like chess and a computer terminal. Business Ed. has a computer terminal, too. The Language Interest Center has tapes, filmstrips, lab stations. And each Interest Center has a conference seminar, intimate in size, maybe only big enough for about seven kids, and a faculty room."

For the Student Center, Mr. Hillier says he has student interviews "about three inches thick" to translate into a program. The art department with an atelier design for display space, would be close to the library, but near a student social center where people could see the displays.

In the Hillier program, Guidance has an Interest Center off the Student Center, and Administration itself is related to the Student Center so that students and staff "interact" more, on an ordinary, day-to-day basis.

The architect sometimes uses the words "adjacency chart," meaning a chart that shows what should be next to what, and who away from whom. (Phys ed and science, for instance, don't need to be close.)

Maybe a snack bar-store, which would need kitchen back-up, could

Plans Progress for Public Transportation— Buses Will Shuttle from Jadwin Parking Lot

Hail a bus or dial a ride—either way, public transportation for Princeton is inching closer.

The citizens transportation committee that's been sponsored jointly by Borough and Township, is almost ready with its bus-route around town and its proposals for a dial-a-ride service.

Like two drivers maneuvering for the same parking space, Borough and Township have sometimes been jockeying for advantage so far as a route is concerned: the Township didn't like one route at all because it concentrated too heavily on Center City Princeton; the Borough wasn't too happy with a far-flung route. Now, it seems, both have agreed, though the route could be changed.

Timetable.

- Plans call for a shuttle at morning-evening rush hours between the Jadwin Gymnasium parking lot and the center of town.
- Suburban Transit buses—smaller than the New York Express models—will run a two-bus fixed route around the community.
- Probably, Suburban will also tell its New York-bound buses to make stops for people who just want to get some place within Princeton.
- Fares will be in the 25-30 cent range.
- Cost of the plan is slightly over $30,000 for a nine-month trial. It will probably be shared 50-50 by Borough and Township. The Borough has budgeted $13,000; the Township, $12,000.

"We're anxious to take advantage of the energy crisis and get this started," said Borough Mayor Robert W. Cawley this week. "Also, we want to move before the decreasing activity of summer."

Alternative. Dial-a-Ride will be operated by Mr. and Mrs. Paul Draper, 41 Jefferson Road, who have been working on the idea since 1972.

They have bought a used Mercedes bus which burns Diesel fuel and gets 25 miles to the gallon. To fit into the state's mini-bus law, it can legally carry only ten passengers, so the Drapers will have to take out some seats.

Like Mayor Cawley, they are eager to roll.

They've put in a bid to be the Jadwin shuttle—besides the Dial-a-Ride—and if it turns out to be economical, they want to buy two more buses, for a fleet of three.

"This bus is narrow enough to go down Bank Street—we've tried it," says Mrs. Draper, "and narrow enough for Spruce Circle, where the elderly live. This means we can pick up older people right at the door—no waiting in the cold at a bus stop."

How to Ride. The system is this: you dial a number and your request is radio-dispatched to the Mercedes. On the way to your house, the driver may pick up another passenger, dropping each of you at your destination.

The bus could pick up ten passengers at the Dinky each evening, dropping them off at their homes. Passengers would probably make arrangements in advance.

Fares would be about 50 cents, but Mrs. Draper would like to see a municipal subsidy so the fare could be only 25 cents.

Will this replace Crosstown 62, the present station-wagon service for the elderly. Nobody is saying yet, although Mayor Cawley suggested this week that the Borough might subsidize the Red Cross which would, in turn, provide tickets to Crosstown passengers to hop the Mercedes.

"Crosstown is fine, but limited," Mrs. Draper says. "They'll only take you to a doctor's appointment, shopping or the library, not to visit a friend. Well! That's what life is all about! We'll take people where they want to go!"

The Drapers think they'll get merchant support for their project, which could draw shoppers into town, free of the hassle of finding a parking place.

The service will operate from a location on State Road, with offices on Spring Street. The Drapers plan to use part-time employees as drivers: students, housewives, retired men.

Next Tuesday, Borough Council may introduce an ordinance to change the present taxi ordinance to encompass dial-a-ride vehicles. There have been conferences with local taxi-drivers and more will be held, Mayor Cawley said this week.

be a lobby for a new cafeteria, near to the food-service section.

Turning to other charts — floorplans of the present building this time—Mr. Hillier points to what he calls "inhuman spaces" and the first of all these is the present cafeteria.

"It's an arena!" and he shudders.

Other "inhuman spaces" are the courtyards, both unused. The two gymnasiums are too small, and they show up on the floor plan as being near the library—why? the architect asks. He sees Phys. Ed. as remote (because of the noise) but linked to a Student Center. Also, today's library is on another floor and in another part of the building from all the media material—why?

"All the media equipment and the library should be together," was one of Mr. Hillier's first comments.

Complaints! For several years, students and faculty have been complaining that Administration and Guidance offices are too far from each other.

For almost as many years, everybody has known that the shop area is very old indeed. Administration and Guidance will go on forever, but what's the extent of future programs in shop? These courses were very popular with West Windsor students, and those students won't be in the high school any more.

For many years, in the past, Home. Ed. used an "apartment" to teach girls how to keep house. No longer a big program at today's PHS, Home Ec. now has too much room.

For generations, every boy over midget size has complained about the boys' locker rooms. Mr. Hillier, in a pixie mood, sent one of his staff who's six feet-six inches tall, into the locker area. Couldn't stand up. As any basketball player could have told him.

Students Advice. "What the students have told us has been extremely valuable," Mr. Hillier says. "The two most popular spaces in that school—the auditorium and the library! Amazing, isn't it, when you think of the condition of that auditorium."

"But its Gothic details are as good as anything in the school. It has great acoustics for music, but bad acoustics for drama: no empathy between the stage and the house. Not enough back-stage space, either."

"You have tremendous programs in both music and drama at the high school, but music is a regular course, drama is extra-curric. Will drama eventually become a course? How would this affect auditorium design?"

"The library is a very popular room and is always crowded—the kids say they love it. Most popular room in the school. But it's out in left field! There are so many courses and special projects that take kids to the library. Our chart shows it as the center of the school."

"When you have spaces like the auditorium and library that are great and are loved, you restore them. When you have spaces that are a disaster—like the cafeteria—you re-do."

Students have helped, too, by pointing out things only students could know. Bike storage. But there already is a place to keep bikes.

Yes, but one place only. Students explained that bike-riders converge on the school from four directions and aren't likely to circle the building looking for a single bike parking place.

"You wouldn't know that, without the students," Mr. Hillier says.

"Tough-it." And those corridors. The Hillier staff, incidentally, has come to refer to the main corridor intersection as "Broad and Vine."

"We had a long, philosophical talk with some students about those impersonal corridors. It's a tough-it existence—why? Well, it's like the streets of New York City. People's small domains are always intruded on by others, and you get an impacted situation. Your defense mechanisms go up and this can cause friction."

Actually, Mr. Hillier thinks, the corridors aren't so bad, if only some relief could be provided, like a Student Center, a "place" that represents Princeton High.

"It's the notion of a point-of-identity, where students, faculty and administration can relate to each other and to the school."

What Do You Like? In the student questionnaire, Mr. Hillier has asked what kids like about PHS, what they don't like. How they get to school (parking is a real problem); what they do after school (a great many of them work.) Faculty (department heads) have also been interviewed and asked what they'd like.

Sidelights and bits of information and stray thoughts are all part of the complex job of modeling a new high school. Mr. Hillier, for example, grew up in Princeton and spent part of his junior year at Princeton High.

"You ask kids what they do after school—oh, hang around. Go to a friend's. I see them myself in the Shopping Center, hanging around. When I was a kid, we had Renwick's and Viedts," (two departed Nassau Street eating places) "and we'd spend all afternoon there, maybe drinking one soda. Kids today don't have that."

Would kids use such a place if it were incorporated into the school building, or do they want to get away? If only ten percent of the kids would use it, is it worth it?

"It's a fascinating project to work on," Mr. Hillier says with enthusiasm. "When we're finished, the school will have historical 'nooks', restored and brought back to their wonderful old Gothic look, and the rest will be very modern. It's exciting.....exciting."

Municipal Budget Story: Township Rate Up 4.1%, Borough 4.3%

Budgets will be up for public hearing next week on both sides of the municipal line: Monday at 8 p.m. in Township and Tuesday at 8 p.m. in Borough Hall. Copies of the budget are available for the public in both municipal buildings.

In each of the Princetons, budgets were prepared this year for the first time by the administrator, instead of by the governing bodies themselves. Township Committeeman Abbot Low Moffat regards the new system as an "unqualified success," relieving Committee of endless detail work.

Committee to keep the tax rate down.

But the question then arises: Why not take more, say $25,000, from current surplus and hold the tax rate at 49 cents, instead of letting it go to 50 cents?

Committee decided it would be more prudent, considering the financial uncertainties of 1974, to beef up the surplus balance. So this year, there is $139,116 in that account, instead of the $87,073 that sustained the Township during 1973.

"We construe our responsibility as broader than just this year's tax bill; we have to consider next year and the year after," Mr. Moffat explained.

Those windfalls that lighted so happily last year included a refund from the Borough of $10,136 in incinerator charges; $14,102 in disaster aid from the 1971 flood; $59,268 in increased sewer rental charges—now anticipated as revenues in this year's budget—and so forth.

Highlights:

- Expanded wading-pool hours (Joint Recreation Board).
- Part-time director for programs geared to elderly and to women. (Joint Recreation Board)

- Part-time planner-executive for Princeton Regional Planning Board.
- $16,500 to finish up master plan (Regional Planning Board).
- Additional evening hours for children (Public Library).
- Replacement, restoration of worn-out facilities (Library).

Township Committee will not make contributions to private agencies, such as Street Theatre (now under the wing of the Recreation Board) or the now-defunct Flight II.

cents: from 47 cents to 50 cents.

Commenting on the budget, Mr. Moffat (finance chairman for Committee) pointed to the surplus funds that accumulate during each fiscal year, and declared that "sound use of the surpluses is perhaps the most important single budget decision that must be made."

Last year, Committee allotted $240,000 from surplus accounts: $150,000 from current, $90,000 from capital. But this year, only $27,000 remained in the capital account. Luckily, the Township had picked up during 1973 a lot of one-time revenues which "swelled the current surplus to record proportions!" Mr. Moffat reported.

This means Committee has been able to draw an extra $50,000 from current surplus, making a total allotment from surplus accounts of $227,000. What this money does is provide a back-up, allowing

Police Admit Wrong Men Arrested for Nassau Inn Robbery

"It is just as important to prove someone innocent as guilty. I think this is what the criminal justice system is all about."

So saying, Chief Michael F. Carnevale went on to report Tuesday that the charges of armed robbery against two Trenton suspects made just a week ago by Borough police in connection with the February 21 holdup of a Nassau Inn courier have been dismissed.

Released was Johnnie W. Combs, 25, but the other suspect, Maurice E. Byrd, 20, is being held by Trenton police on narcotic charges and other outstanding warrants for his arrest.

"You hear a lot about the criminal justice system in this country...what's wrong with it, what's wrong with the police...that's why it is important for people to know these two men are not guilty, why it is important for their friends to see their names have been cleared," commented Chief Carnevale.

Evidence Appeared Adequate. How did this development come about? Chief Carnevale stated that his department had more than enough evidence to charge the two suspects and keep them in jail until a trial. Two eye-witnesses and a third witness had identified them in a police line-up as the ones who had committed the armed robbery of the Inn courier, a robbery which netted the thieves $13,000 in cash. The money was never recovered.

"With this and other evidence, our detectives investigating the case acted in accordance with legally established criminal warrant procedures," Chief Carnevale said.

Essentially, he continued, the three—Det. Thomas Michaud, Det. Anthony Ranfone and Det. Timothy Huizing—were still not satisfied, however, with certain aspects of the case. They had, he said, a "gut reaction" that something was wrong. They continued to check out all alibis, many of which, he pointed out, "didn't help the suspects but instead suggested their guilt."

The detectives arranged for State Police experts to give the suspects a lie detector test. As a result of these tests and from information gathered from their own continuing investigations, the charges were dropped, Chief Carnevale said. "The result of the Polygraph tests played heavily in the decision," he said.

Pride Expressed. "I'm very proud," he added, "of our investigators and the manner in which they pursued their responsibility as police officers in uncovering evidence that led to the suspects' release. It's an extreme tribute to our men that they weren't satisfied with the evidence they had at hand."

Far from being embarrassed, Chief Carnevale said that the only mistake would have been if the investigators after apprehending the suspects had sat tight and waited to go to court without checking out the alibis that eventually cleared them.

In a prepared statement, Chief Carnevale said in part: "This in my estimation is how the criminal justice system should work. It is the awesome responsibility of police to make it a certainty that the innocent do not remain incarcerated while awaiting trial without the police first having actively exhausted all leads and alibis."

Detectives Huizing, Ranfone and Michaud are continuing the investigation of the Nassau Inn holdup, he said

A Taste of Spring
As you walk
Down Nassau Street,
The warm March wind
Blows 'round your feet

Monday's temperature hit 70, the first time in more than a century of recorded weather that the thermometer had been that high on March 4. Tuesday's cloud cover prevented a record that day, but readings were in the 60s.

Temperatures well above normal are forecast for the rest of the week, but so are showers. There may be some late Thursday and again before the weekend is over, the Man reports. February averages closed out below normal, but overall, 1974 has produced another winter milder than usual—a welcome trend during the oil shortage.

BOARD SAYS "YES"
To Home Addition. The Borough Zoning board last week voted unanimously to grant a minor exception to the zoning ordinance's lot coverage requirement, enabling John and Marie Womack, 32 Markham Road, to construct a two-story addition to the rear of their home.

Less fortunate was Peter DeCarlo, attorney for Blimpie Base, a chain which wants to install a stand-up luncheonette at 25 Witherspoon Street.

When Mr. DeCarlo approached to request a waiver of 15 off-street parking spaces that the Planning Board had ruled last month that the firm must provide, board attorney William Von Oehsen Jr. informed him that there had been a problem with one of the notices.

A waiver requested by Mr. DeCarlo from a property owner within 200 feet, now living in Massachusetts, had not been received by the zoning secretary. Notices came under state jurisdiction, Mr. Von Oehsen said, and the board had no choice but to refuse to hear the case until everyone had been properly notified. Mr. DeCarlo was penciled in for the March 28th meeting.

In the Borough. Amendments will be presented Tuesday night to sop up a $78,000 bookkeeping mistake made in preparing the $2,859,208 budget. In the Borough, taxpayers will pay a local rate of 97 cents, about three percent higher than last year's rate, 94 cents.

Here again, surplus money has been used to hold down the rate. The Borough is using $215,000 to reduce this year's rate, leaving about $100,000 in surplus accounts to cushion the impact of big expenses like sewers and the high school remodeling.

The $78,000 was counted twice, and Council must figure out some way to absorb it. Amendments will be introduced to use $41,000 for paying off purchase of the so-called Farr parking lot on Tulane; $20,000 for a contribution to the startled Stony Brook Regional Sewer Authority, which hadn't expected anything, and $12,900 to reduce the local tax rate. It would have been 98 cents otherwise.

Highlights:
• $22,000 for revaluation of all Borough property to bring everybody's holdings in line with the present market.
• $200,000 to be raised through bonds to pay for examination of the sewer collector system and make a blueprint of recommendations.

• $33,000 for traffic lights at Franklin and Harrison; Harrison and Prospect. The state will pay for a signal at Elm and Stockton, Princeton University for one at Prospect and Washington.

IF YOU LIKE TOWN TOPICS, the best way to express your appreciation is to mention it to our advertisers.

Opposed by Neighbor. The Womacks' application was opposed by a neighbor, Mrs. Mary Olivier, who was represented by attorney Lowell F. Curran Jr. during the hearing which lasted almost three hours. Mr. Curran told the board that Mrs. Olivier objected to the intrusion of sun, light and air. He submitted to the board an 18-page petition containing almost 100 signatures from property owners—not all within the prescribed 200 feet—who, he said, opposed the addition.

Mr. Womack presented a modified plan from the one he had the month before—the case was a continuation—in which he eliminated a second floor balcony, removed an external structure and eliminated a wall of glass blocks facing Mrs. Olivier's home to which she objected.

He told the board that he and his architect, Peter Waldman, had seriously considered three alternatives: remove a front porch and expand forward; remove the roof and build straight up; or eliminate a garage and go ahead with his plans since he would no longer be in violation. "Expanding to the rear," he said, "would be more private to us and have less visual impact on neighbors."

Pointing out that Mrs. Curran had objected, he said, "I am sure that Mrs. Curran will be satisfied with the new plan."

Apartments May Be Built on Moore near Nassau

New apartments just off Nassau? That's the possibility raised for apartment-hungry Princetonians by a one and one-half acre package just assembled by the real estate firm of Adlerman, Click and Co. Asking price: $370,000.

The ancient University Cleaners building on Moore Street is the heart of the package. The building stands on a plot 99 by 280 feet, but the private street known as Willow Alley alongside the building, is part of the property and adds another 32 feet of width.

The other half of the parcel consists of two houses and a lot owned by Robert Nelson: one house facing Moore Street, across Willow from the Cleaners and the other on Willow itself. A vacant piece of land on the corner of Moore and Willow is also owned by Mr. Nelson.

The separate price for the parcels is $185,000 for the Cleaners and $175,000 for the Nelson land. But Adlerman and Click like the idea of apartments and believe the properties have more to offer if combined.

Apartments. The land, in the Borough's R-4 residential zone, is zoned for multiple housing. Under the ordinance, buildings can be no taller than three stories and can occupy only 30 percent of the lot area. Each dwelling unit of one or two "habitable rooms"—zoning language—must be backed by 2,600 square feet of land. The parking requirement is 1½ spaces for each apartment.

Aniuta Blanc of the real estate agency said this week that Adlerman and Click have retained architects and planners to look over the properties and see what might be done; for example, Willow is an existing dead-end street and might become a local court-yard.

Olivier's opposition had centered on a reduction of sunlight and view, he said: "It seems to me one enjoys a view, one doesn't have a right to a view."

The 29.5 foot by 14.5 foot addition would increase the size of the house by about a third. It would add another 3.75 increase in the allowable lot coverage of 25 percent in an R3 zone. The home was already in violation by 4.9 percent.

Mr. Curran, in turn, told the board that the section of the ordinance dealing with minor adjustments was limited to "appropriate additions" to existing buildings.

Repeatedly during the long hearing he stressed these points: that a one-third addition to a 50-year old house was not an "appropriate" addition; that a 20 percent increase in coverage was not minor but major, and since it was major it was not appropriate, and that Mr. Womack had failed to supply "an iota of evidence" that what he was asking for was a minor exception. "All he has told us is that he needs the space and would like to have it," Mr. Curran said.

"All I ask the board is to decide whether this is a minor adjustment and whether it is appropriate for this house and this neighborhood—however suitable it may be to the lifestyle of the Womacks."

Neighbors in the audience spoke out in support of and against the proposed addition.

THREE CARS COLLIDE

Behind School Bus. Three cars were involved in a chain collision Friday morning when the first in line stopped for a school bus on Rosedale Road at Fairway. It was raining at the time.

Karen L. Beecher, 21, of East Brunswick, and Karen K. Bannister, 37, Spur Route 518, Hopewell, the first two drivers, sustained minor injuries. Ptl. Jerry Offredo ticketed the third, Cynthia A. Hunter, 32, of Lambertville for careless driving when she failed to stop. She told him that she applied her brakes but was unable to stop in time.

Cyclist Struck. Bicyclist Dinah PoKempner, 14, 249 Shady Brook Lane, was struck by a car last week as she tried to cross Nassau Street near Harriet Drive.

She was taken to Princeton Medical Center by the driver, Katherine M. Cammarato, 18, of Trenton, where she was treated for an abrasion of the hand. There were no charges.

Miss Cammarato told police that she saw the cyclist and thought "she was going to wait until I passed, but she kept coming." She swerved left to avoid her, she continued, heard a thud, looked back and saw the girl lying in the street.

RAPE SUSPECT NABBED

By Borough Police. A suspect wanted by West Windsor police for an alleged rape was apprehended Saturday afternoon by five Borough police on Nassau Street near Pietrinferno's Diner.

Robert Barry, 37, was later turned over to Lt. Frank Cox of the West Windsor police. His last known address, police said, was Pennington Road, Trenton.

Barry was first observed at 4:40 on Nassau Street by foot patrolman William Hunter, who recognized him from a "wanted" photo at headquarters. As Ptl. Hunter began to approach him, the suspect fled. He was later apprehended by Hunter.

The University Cleaners, owned since the late 1930's by John Archer, was sold exactly two years ago to the three owners of the Ramp Cleaners—Paul Gangi, Michael Vernoia and Al Brauca.

The business has prospered under the new owners, but they have been considering moving the actual cleaning operations to another location. (Ramp Cleaners has a main plant in Hightstown and two service outlets. The Princeton plant has the main Moore Street facilities, a service outlet in the Princeton Shopping Center and two laundromats.)

"Young couples, single executives, retired people could live in apartments here and be right downtown," Ms. Blanc says of the Moore Street site. "We want to upgrade that area, but still keep it the quiet, shady street, old-Princeton neighborhood."

Frelinghuysen: "No"

Princeton's Congressman, Republican Peter H.B. Frelinghuysen, announced Monday that he will not run again for his Congressional seat. He has been in the House of Representatives for 22 years.

In his statement, Congressman Frelinghuysen denied that Watergate influenced his decision; on the contrary, he said, Watergate made it harder for him, because he didn't want to be accused of "walking away from my responsibilities at a critical time."

He said he hoped his action would encourage others to withdraw, making room in Congress for new faces and fresh viewpoints.

Princeton resident Frederick Bohen, Democrat, has already announced that he will run for the Congressional seat.

Credit Card Thief. Edward Lavendosky, 27, of Morrisville, Pa., was charged with possession of stolen credit cards by Borough police last week, following his arrest on Stockton Street.

Mr. Lavendosky had been stopped by Ptl. Ronald Holliday for a motor vehicle violation. Police said that when he was removing his license from his wallet, some credit cards fell out. Ptl. Holliday picked them up to return them but noticed that the name on the cards and license were not the same.

In a subsequent search, Mr. Lavendosky was also charged with possession of under 25 grams of marijuana. He is presently free on $1500, pending a court appearance. Police report that the credit cards had been stolen from a Trenton resident while his car was parked in Ewing Township in February.

ASSAULT ATTEMPTED

On Graduate Student. An attempted assault on a graduate student by two young men at 12:59 Sunday morning failed when the intended victim managed to flee and report the incident to Princeton University Security.

Police said that the intended victim, on his way to the college infirmary, was approached on College Road by two youths who asked for money. The victim ran away, however, and was not physically attacked.

Det. Douglas Watson of the Borough police is continuing the investigation. Police report that they have two descriptions of the suspects.

Late Thursday night, a university student called police to report that he had witnessed an assault on one man by another at Nassau and Witherspoon streets.

The caller, who refused to identify himself, told police that a man was trying to get money from the other. However, when Ptl. Ptl. Joseph Wilhelm and Ptl. Victor Fasanella arrived they could find no one.

Need a 2 Cent Stamp?

Plenty of people did. When first-class postage went from eight to ten cents and airmail from 11 to 13, a lot of billpayers were caught without enough postage to pay the mortgage.

Around 200,000 two-cent stamps were sold in the Palmer Square Princeton post office during Monday and Tuesday, reports Postmaster Basil Ferrara. Crowds? Looked like Christmas-mailing rush.

Not so many ten-centers—only about 100,000, and Mr. Ferrara has half a million. He reminds everyone, by the way, that you can still use eight-cent stamps for postcards, but that's a ticklish way to pay a bill.

NEW TRUSTEES LISTED

By Medical Center. The addition of eight area residents to the Medical Center at Princeton Board of Trustees has been announced by Chairman Ralph S. Mason. Their appointment followed a special meeting of the Medical Center corporation which expanded the board from 18 to 26 members and created a series of new executive positions. The expansion includes delegates from the center's medical and dental staff, Auxiliary and administration.

Physicians appointed to the board include Dr. Marvin R. Blumenthal, 71 Adams Drive; Dr. Bernard Ghitman, 429 South Main Street, Hightstown; and Dr. David B. Miller, 95 Russell Road.

Auxiliary delegates include Mrs. Graham M. Brush Jr., 232 Russell Road, president; Mrs. Douglas L. Corlette, 220 Snowden Lane, vice president; and Mrs. Charles L. Jaffin, 522 Rosedale Road, immediate past president.

Voting privileges also were granted to John W. Kauffman, who became president of the corporation after serving as executive vice president for four years, and Dr. William F. Besser, newly-elected president of the medical and dental staff.

Named to the newly-created position of chairman of the board was Mr. Mason, 265 Brookstone Drive, who has served as its president since 1971. Walter A. Seligman,

Medical Center administrator since 1970, was appointed to fill the new position of corporation vice president and was appointed assistant secretary to the board.

Other officers of the corporation include William A. Schreyer, Princeton, vice chairman; John F. Hoff III, Skillman, treasurer; Anthony J. Maruca, Princeton, assistant treasurer; and Alexander K. Buck, Princeton, secretary.

Board expansion and new positions were created through changes in the Medical Center's corporate by-laws. Revisions, according to officials, were recommended to "broaden the base of representation and expertise" of the center's policy-making body.

REPLIES SOUGHT

To Swimming Pool Survey. The West Windsor Recreation Commission has urged residents to return promptly the completed questionnaire which they received from the Swimming Pool Committee.

The survey form, with a return portion, was mailed to approximately 2450 households in West Windsor. This survey is being conducted to determine whether there is sufficient interest in the community to proceed with plans for a swimming pool complex.

As indicated on the form, the proposed pool is designed to be self-supporting and not dependent upon municipal taxes. This type of swimming pool complex has been successfully financed and is now operating in other communities in New Jersey.

An important question in the minds of some West Windsor residents is the extent to which the West Windsor-Plainsboro Regional High School swimming pool will be available for community use. At the time the high school swimming pool proposal was brought before the voters in West Windsor and Plainsboro, the Board of Education distributed a brochure which contained the following statement: "While the proposed instructional pool cannot meet all the recreational needs of a growing community, it is designed and intended to provide summer and winter recreational and instructional swimming for the school district community on a programmed basis."

While it is anticipated that the West Windsor and Plainsboro Recreation Commissions will be able to arrange programmed activities at the high school pool, the pool is not designed for large scale "open swimming." Furthermore, it is not designed for the use of children, since the lowest depth is four feet. In addition, since the pool is primarily designed for instructional and swim meet use, the apron area surrounding the pool is not suitable for recreational use.

The Swimming Pool Committee has designated

EXPOSE PLANNED
Of Antique Fakery. Flim-flam, fakery and fraud in the antiques business will be considered by a panel discussion at the annual Princeton Antiques Show, sponsored by the Wellesley Club of Central Jersey. The show will take place March 21-23 at the Princeton Day School, the Great Road. The panel discussion will be Friday, March 22, from 10:30 to 11:45.

The topic for the panel will be "Detecting the Spurious in Antiques," and will be discussed by a group of reputable antiques dealers and by several collectors from the Delaware Valley who have been defrauded by unscrupulous dealers.

Panelists have been selected by Malcolm Stearns of Hobart House, Haddam, Conn., and by Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Barenholtz of Princeton. Mr. Stearns is an expert on the subject of antique metals, including silver, gold and pewter. Mr. and Mrs. Barenholtz have privately assembled an impressive collection of antique toys and folk art.

Other experts will discuss methods of authentication in antiques in general, with special emphasis on furniture, glass of all types, and scrimshaw.

Among the topics expected to arise are how to spot "antiquing" or deliberate age falsification; what questions to ask in determining a dealer's good faith; hallmarks, trademarks and signatures; how to spot a reproduction being sold as an antique; legal recourse for defrauded collectors; and

AGE OF ENLIGHTENMENT
With Site-Plan Control. "Princeton is now entering the age of Environmental Enlightenment," commented Rosemary O'Brien, head of the Township's Environmental Commission, after introduction by Township Committee of a new site-plan review ordinance.

It's possible that an identical ordinance will be introduced next Tuesday by Borough Council, because the new measure has a dual purpose: to bring into line diverging Township and Borough site plan rules, and to impose stricter environmental standards.

After the ordinance was introduced (at a special late-Friday afternoon session), Committeeman William Sutphin questioned whether the Borough was "really interested" in uniform standards for the two communities. If not, he said the Township should up-date its own standards anyway.

The strongest environmental impact of the measure will, of course, be felt in the Township with its spaces wide open for eventual (after lifting of the sewer moratorium) building. Borough officials are said to be troubled about the lengthy documentation required of somebody who just wants to build a small store. But Mr. Sutphin pointed to a short-cut form written into the ordinance for just that purpose.

Matter of Priority. Borough Mayor Robert W. Cawley said Tuesday that the Borough doesn't feel negative at all, but "the ordinance is very detailed, and it will take a lot of work to do a good job of examining it. I guess it has a relatively low priority in terms of what it can do for the Borough—maybe housing and transportation seem more vital to us, here."

"But I don't see strong opposition. Don't forget the draft of this ordinance has just been finished—we haven't had much chance to study it."

Site plan review, under the ordinance, will be done by a six-member committee—three Borough, three Township—consisting of landscape architects, engineers, planners, or similar professionals. Environmental Commissions, Boards of Health and the Princeton Regional Planning Board will have liaison members.

This committee will examine applications and make recommendations to the Planning Board. At present, the Township has a similar committee for site-plan review; the Borough relies on the Planning Board as a whole.

The ordinance applies to all buildings except one or two-family houses, unless houses of that kind are in a subdivision with more than five lots. In that case, the houses come under the ordinance.

The developer must submit an Environmental Infor-

The statement must include a list of the sections of the Mercer County Soil Survey Map that pertain to the site; the estimated water demand, sewage flow and amount of garbage, with a description of how sewage is to be disposed.

Data Required. Also, the developer must present figures on the existing surface water runoff rate and volume, and how much is expected after the development has been built. Changes to existing natural drainage must be outlined, and a plan presented to show how the developer intends to control soil erosion and stream sedimentation during and after building.

Finally, developers must describe the impact of the project on streams, wetlands, areas of aquifer recharge and discharge, slopes steeper than 20 percent, mature stands of vegetation, areas of high water table, and so on.

To allow citizens, Borough Council and the Planning Board plenty of time for thought, Committee scheduled public hearing a long time off: on Monday, April 15.

family would have in transit. The movers emptied out the West Orange house Saturday morning, and then arrived in Princeton about 2 that afternoon, ahead of the Governor's wife, Jean. With no one to direct the placement of furniture in rooms, the movers began to deposit pieces on the front porch. The move otherwise was accomplished without major mishap or inconvenience, according to the Governor's press secretary, Richard Campbell.

A portion of the Governor's $35,000 annual expense account is earmarked for maintenance of Morven and for social and entertainment functions that are held there. Mr. Campbell said he knew of no immediate plans to make changes in the mansion.

One of the Byrne family will not live at Morven. That is Brendan T. Byrne Jr., known as Tom, a sophomore at Princeton University. He will continue to live on the campus.

PROGRESSION I-95

Safety Installations Planned. Transportation Commissioner Alan Sagner has announced that bids will be received Thursday for traffic safety installations on a 5.5-mile section of Interstate Route 95 in Mercer County.

The contract calls for improving lighting, signing and guardrails along the 2.1-mile portion of Route 95 from Route 29 Freeway to Scotch Road, Ewing Township. In addition, the contract includes the installation of new lighting, signing and guardrails along the 3.4-mile portion under construction from Scotch Road to Federal City Road, Hopewell Township.

A total of 17 overhead sign supports, two bridge-mounted sign supports and 93 sign lighting assemblies will be installed along the highway. The contractor will install 11,500 feet of steel beam guardrail along the new portion of the highway and modify 15,400 feet of guardrail on the existing section. Both the new and modified rails will be mounted six inches in front of the 27-inch-high steel posts to reduce the danger of vehicles rolling over the rail or striking the steel posts.

The project, which is expected to be completed by the end of this year, will be funded 90 percent by the Federal government and 10 percent by the State. All bids will be reviewed before a contract is awarded.

News Of The CHURCHES

PASTOR TO BE NAMED

At Nassau Presbyterian. The Pastor Nominating Committee of the Nassau Presbyterian Church, in search of a new senior minister since the church's merger last June, has apparently found one. He will be introduced to the church this Sunday morning, and will be the guest preacher at a single 10 o'clock service in the Palmer Square sanctuary.

Following the service a special congregational meeting will be held, with a vote taken to extend a call to the candidate. The committee has no doubt about the outcome. "We are unanimously enthusiastic about this candidate," said Mrs. Ralph Bloom, chairman of the committee. Following the meeting a reception is planned in honor of the new minister.

Several other formalities will remain before the new pastor begins his duties at Nassau. The Presbytery of New Brunswick must process the call and send it to the candidate's Presbytery, where it will be accepted. That Presbytery must then dismiss the candidate and assign him to the Presbytery of New Brunswick. The process should take several weeks.

PERSPECTIVES AIRED

On Mid-East Problems. The Princeton Interfaith Council is continuing its efforts to present to the public the pro-Israeli and pro-Arab viewpoints on the Middle East crisis. A series of six discussions will begin this Sunday, with Professor John H. Marks of the Near Eastern Studies Program at Princeton University speaking at 9:30 a.m. at the Princeton United Methodist Church. He will represent the Arab position.

At the same time and place next Sunday, March 17, Rabbi Edward Feld, director of the Princeton University Hillel Foundation, will speak. Times and places of other programs have not yet been announced. The Interfaith Council sponsored a spirited debate in January between Dr. Marks and Professor Michael Curtis of Rutgers, reflecting the Israeli position. The Council hopes the series beginning Sunday will continue this dialogue.

CHURCH DONATES BUS

To Community Center. The Lawrenceville Presbyterian Church has contributed $3,000 for purchase of a minibus for the East Trenton Center. The donation was one of the goals of the church's 275th anniversary celebration.

"Since our founding in 1698, this congregation has drawn some of its strength from neighboring communities and we wished to observe our 275th anniversary by responding in turn to some of the present needs of the inner city," said Lee A. Wiley, anniversary chairman. "We are pleased that the minibus has arrived in time to give the East Trenton Center its own energy-conserving, miniature mass-transit system."

The East Trenton Center, at Olden and Clinton avenues, is housed in the building left vacant by the dissolution of the East Trenton Presbyterian Church in 1962. The Center provides community services for all ages—day care, Head Start, juvenile counseling, golden age dinners, sewing and cooking classes, physical fitness programs and community meetings.

HAPPY ANNIVERSARY FROM COPE: COPE--Churches of Pennington Ecumenical--embracing the six churches in that small community wanted to honor the Pennington Methodist Church, which is celebrating its 200th anniversary. Sumner Barlow, a member of the Catholic Church, a retired businessman and published poet, (second from right) wrote a poem celebrating the anniversary; it was illustrated by Miltzi Kust (center), a book illustrator and also a Catholic church member. Gerard Rau (right), chairman of the church's anniversary committee and first chairman of COPE, receives the plaque with Mrs. Peggy Miller of the Methodist Church and present COPE chairwoman. At left is the Rev. Lawrence Moore of the Methodist Church.

PURIM CARNIVAL SET

At Jewish Center. A holiday tradition that is 2,500 years old will be observed this Sunday from 10:30 to 4 at the Princeton Jewish Center. The occasion is the Purim Carnival, which will include a traditional bake sale with hamantaschen and a costume parade.

The Purim Carnival stems from a man named Haman's attempt to kill a group of Persian Jews 2,500 years ago. Haman failed and the festivities are intended to remind Jews around the world of the unsuccessful plot.

The Princeton Jewish Center has added its own traditions to the carnival. Cotton candy, a roulette wheel, booths and prizes for the best costumes will be included. Lunch will also be served.

BULLETIN NOTES

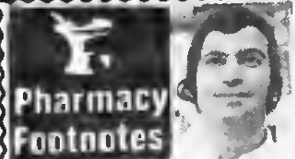

Irving Dilliard, former editorial page editor of the St. Louis Post-Dispatch and Professor Emeritus of Journalism at Princeton University, will be the guest speaker Sunday at the Princeton University Chapel's 11 o'clock service.

Two public lectures will be offered next week at the Princeton Theological Seminary. Professor Bryan Wilson, a Fellow of All Souls College, Oxford University, will speak on "Religious Experiences in the Modern World" in the main lounge of the Campus Center on Tuesday at 7:45. He will discuss new religious sects and their implications in America and Europe.

The Rev. Dr. Elmer G. Homrighausen will speak Wednesday at 10 a.m. in the Miller Chapel. His topic will be "The Finality of Jesus Christ." Dr. Homrighausen is the Seminary's Charles R. Erdman Professor of Pastoral Theology, Emeritus.

The Episcopal Church Women of Trinity Church, Rocky Hill, will meet Monday at 7:30 in the parish hall to discuss plans for their annual smorgasbord dinner, Saturday, April 27. The church has also announced a new schedule of services. Morning Prayer will be held at 10:30 on the second, fourth and fifth Sundays of the month. Holy Communion will be at 10:30 on the first and third Sundays. Sunday School will coincide with the 10:30 services and a nursery will be available.

The normal heartbeat in the normal adult heart is about seventy beats per minute. This adds up to about 4200 beats an hour, 100,800 beats a day, and 36,792,000 beats a year. And this is when a person remains fairly quiet, calm and not frightened. If a person is upset or exercising, the number of beats increases. Clench and unclench your fist slowly and see how long you can do it before your muscle begins to tire. Compare this to the strength of the muscle in your heart.

Everybody complains about poor gas mileage. Let's do something about it!

Eldridge Pontiac-Buick has a partial solution.

Edward Baker, President of Eldridge Pontiac-Buick

I have personally tested my 1974 Buick Riviera under normal driving conditions and have found that this luxury motor car gets 16 miles to the gallon on the open road and 13 miles to the gallon around town.

This is an increase of 20% over what I have previously been getting.

The increase in mileage was directly attributable to the MBI Pre-Combustion Catalyst. This device is available for immediate installation at a very reasonable cost and can be installed quickly on any car. For complete information about this pre-combustion catalyst, call Mr. Erich Pawlowski of our Service Department at 921-2400.

AT THE PRESENT TIME WE HAVE 8 FACTORY-FRESH PONTIAC AND BUICK 1973 LEFTOVERS. THE SAVINGS ARE FANTASTIC AND NOW WITH EVERY NEW PONTIAC AND BUICK SOLD, THE MBI COMBUSTION CATALYST IS AVAILABLE, GIVING THE OWNER EXCELLENT GAS MILEAGE.

A new car at a very substantial saving with better gas mileage is, we feel, a combination hard to beat. Incidentally, the MBI Pre-Combustion Catalyst also helps control pollution while improving performance.

Paddle Tournaments Set
The Princeton Area Platform Tennis Championships have been expanded this year to include a women's tournament. Matches will be played March 25-27 for women, and 30-31 for men, with both finals to be held Sunday, March 31, at Community Park.
All Princeton residents and area club members are welcome to enter. Information and entry forms will be available at all clubs and courts next week. Deadline for entries is Wednesday, March 20.
For more information, call Jack Roberts at the Princeton Recreation Department, 921-9480.

32 points. He spread his scoring out evenly, hitting for 6-9-8-9 points in each period. From the foul line, where PHS was 11 for 12, Bobby was a perfect 6-for-6. He ended with a career total of 1106.

"Bobby's just one man. It's unfortunate he had to go out like this," said PHS coach Marvin Trotman. "We're at least 10 points better than that club, but we must have thrown the ball away 100 times."

Other Sports On Pages 47-51

King converted both ends of a 1-and-1 when he was fouled with 20 seconds left to tie it at 71. However, the Falcons' little Juno Hernandez, who did not come in until started Tom Hargrove had fouled out with 6:17 to go, scored the winning basket with two seconds left. Craig Robinson immediately called time out, but PHS had none left so the Little Tigers were hit with a technical.

Down, 64-58, PHS scored seven in a row on two free throws by Robinson, a three-point play by King and a basket by Pete Watson to regain the lead at 65-64. But Hernandez hit two small jumpers underneath and scored again to keep Monmouth ahead.

Two things did the Little Tigers in turnovers and fouling. As early as 1:07 in the first period PHS was over the limit. Four quick fouls in the third quarter had Monmouth shooting 1-and-1 again. The Falcons only converted 13 of 22 but it was the difference as both clubs hit on 30 shots from the floor. In contrast, PHS did not shoot a 1-and-1 until the final period.

Perhaps the long layoff made PHS rusty—it hadn't played since February 22—but it was guilty of excessive turnovers, particularly in passing. "We didn't deserve to win," said Trotman.

Didn't Play as a Team. "When you think you're better than you are, it always catches up to you. We have some players who think they're super stars. We didn't play as a team," said Trotman. "Every time we did play as a unit, we scored."

PHS led early but fell behind 18-14 at the end of the period. Three quick baskets in a row by Ted Brown underneath brought PHS to within one, 28-27, but Brown picked up his fourth foul with 2:25 to go in the half and did not return until the final period.

A basket by King at the 5:30 mark in the third period tied the game at 42. One by Greg Bullock and another by King gave Princeton its biggest lead of the half, but the home team could not contain the scrappy Falcons from New Shrewsbury, who entered the game with a 13-10 record.

In NJSIAA Tournament. It's all over for the Princeton High School basketball team.

Sanders Scheiber

Mr. Burkhead reported that the bank has grown to a $3.5 million institution since its opening four months ago. He said that construction of permanent facilities will begin this summer on the bank's present site on Princeton-Hightstown Road, Princeton Junction. The new bank building will have a community room for use by area organizations.

TURF CLINIC ATTENDED
By Princeton Man. Sanders Wade A. Scheiber, of 107 Grover Avenue, the owner of the Princeton Lawn King franchise, last month attended a five-day symposium sponsored by Cook College of Rutgers University.

The symposium dealt with modern trends and research developments in the science of turf growing, soils and soil management. Fertilizers, turf grasses, insect pests, diseases and methods of lawn management were discussed.

an eight-week class in basic gardening methods taught by Judith Nielsen. Garden layout, soil analysis, composting, mulching, insect control, canning and preserving, are among the topics she will cover. Classes will be held on Thursday evenings from 8 to 9, beginning March 21 at the Whole Earth Center.

For registration and further information call 924-2399. Mrs. Nielsen has taught at Mercer County Community College and is presently teaching organic gardening at Princeton Adult School.

SHAKE-UP CONTINUES

At Horizon Bancorp. Internal strife at Horizon Bancorp, evidenced last month by the resignation of William R. Cosby as chairman of the Board of Directors of Princeton Bank and Trust Company, a Horizon member, has led to another major personnel change.

James D. Elleman, Chairman of the Board of the American National Bank and Trust of New Jersey, another holding company member, and Chairman and Chief Executive Officer of Horizon Bancorp, last week resigned all of his positions. "Personal reasons" and "differences between Mr. Elleman and the bank and holding company management philosophy" were cited in a joint announcement issued by Horizon.

Mr. Cosby indicated that differences in philosophy between him and the Board of Princeton Bank and Trust led to his loss of Board support. Princeton Bank and American National jointly formed the holding company, first known as Princeton American Bancorp, in January, 1972. Mr. Elleman had headed the holding company since its inception.

Bergen Groendyke, Michael Greschak, and Wallace McLean.

captain, Martin Walker, who connected for 20 points, the Falcons spread their scoring evenly. Tom Hargrove had 12, Paul Kaikaka 14, Jerel Cooperhouse 13, and Hernandez 8—all in the final period.

Brown and Watson each had 10 for PHS, Robinson 8, Bullock 7, and Steve Towns and Daryl Marshall 2 each. PHS ended the year with an 11-8 record.

HUN GAINS IN LEAGUE But Loses State Bid. It was a full week for the Hun basketball team, one replete with achievement and disappointment.

First the achievement. Hun's 70-61 victory here Monday over Pennington School clinched the north divisional title in the Penn Jersey League for Hun. Hun will play either Solebury or Friends Central which are vying for the southern crown. Hun is the defending league champion.

The disappointment—Hun on Saturday failed again in its bid to win the Class A State Prep School championship when it was defeated soundly by Lawrenceville, 73-55. The Larries thus atoned for an earlier one-point, overtime upset by Hun—Hun's first victory over Lawrenceville on a basketball court.

Hun was scheduled to play its final regular season game this Wednesday afternoon at home, opposing Pennsylvania School for the Deaf. The Red and Black is presently 20-6.

Second over Pennington. Pennington (20-5) with its two fine shooting guards, Wayne Emme and Jerry Eure, is enjoying one of its best seasons in years, but it couldn't top Hun. Hun's win was its second this year over the Red Raiders.

Hun coach Dave Leete's plan was to allow Emme and Eure their 40 points but put pressure on the remaining Pennington players. It worked. Emme hit for 26, Eure left with 14 when he fouled out with 4:21 left in the third period, but aside from Frank Entwistle, who had 11, no other Pennington player scored more than 4.

Hun, in turn, received a 26-point performance from its outstanding guard, Tony Trani, and 25 more from forward Brent Bystrycki. The two also converted 15 of 17 free throws.

Hun played without starters Biff Hollowell and Brian Logue who were sidelined with injuries, while Pennington was forced to go without its starting sophomore center, Reese Cramer, who was injured in last week's state title game with Princeton Day School.

Larries All the Way. Hitting on 25 of 64 shots, Lawrenceville took a 20-12 first period lead against Hun never to look back and win the state prep school title. The Larries, who lost only to Hun and powerful Trenton High, ended their season with a 17-2 record.

Trailing 11-4, Hun connected for eight straight points to take its only lead, 12-11. Lawrenceville immediately countered with a string of 13 straight as Hun hit only 16 of 53 shots. "We made too many mistakes, mostly turnovers, and our shooting was poor," said Leete. "We just couldn't get the ball inside, and that was the key."

BUT AT COUNTRY ANTIQUES

CAN YOU FIND...

COOL HOUSES?

Two hanging wall cabinets, (one mahogany, one gold) mirror lined.
Decorated with doll furniture and miniatures. Three or four stories to each house. Several small dolls, chandeliers, lamps, bathtubs, toy mugs, pianos, even an organ included. The pieces are good, mostly F.A.O. Schwartz and all are dated about 1905. Possibly it would be to our advantage to separate, but somehow we prefer to sell complete as it really belongs together.

At long last a few oil lamps in working order.

Easter post cards, to the young ladies who say, "A dollar" as if we were demented. "I can buy all I want for twenty five cents," well, you really can't.

Calligraphy steel pen drawing of a tierce lion, beautifully drawn and is considered equal to those in the Abby Aldrich Rockefeller Museum in Williamsburg, say we modestly.

New Exhibit at Historical Society Travels Back To Colonial Days for Look at Household Wares

To make life a little easier for the housewife, somebody designed an ingenious clock-work jack with a key: to turn the ham while it was smoking, of course.

It's in the Colonial fireplace (equally ingenious, but we'll get to that in a minute) in the corner of the exhibit room at Bainbridge House, headquarters and head kitchen for the Princeton Historical Society.

"Woman's Work is Never Done," is the title of the Society's new exhibit. It's a display of household wares from the period between 1740 and 1840, with a few early 20th-century implements arranged just for fun.

Bainbridge House is open Tuesdays through Saturdays from 10 to 4. Sundays from 2-4 and Mondays from 10 to 2. The exhibit will remain for about six weeks.

The "fireplace" is a full-sized Colonial model, its blackened "bricks" drawn into wet black paint in a kind of fingerpaint technique, its "hand-hewn" mantel and facing "bricks" so real you might imagine the fireplace a fixture of Bainbridge House for 200 years. Mrs. Dale Johnson, chairman of this exhibit, credits Elric Endersby with the fireplace design.

Within the fireplace are the cooking and baking tools of Colonial New Jersey—and indeed, the colonies everywhere. Iron soup kettles, round and oval...a tin roaster, now at one side of the hearth but ready to go right in front of the fire to roast a chicken or a leg of mutton...a toaster, quite a rare find, which can be turned to make each side of a bread slice equally golden...a three-legged griddle.

BUT DID THEY WEAR PANTS? Two contemporary women show how women of long ago cooked and baked at the multi-purpose fireplaces of an earlier America. Mrs. Chantal McCarroll (left) and Mrs. Dale Johnson of the Princeton Historical Society, arranged the Society's newest exhibit, "Women's Work is Never Done," featuring the household goods of generations past. (But those 1974 pants suits???)

On the hearth is something resembling a popcorn popper. It's actually a box for carrying embers from this fireplace to others in the house for lighting a new fire.

Antique Rifle On View. Above the fireplace is a splendid Hudson Valley fowling piece dating from 1740. It's from Don Baird's gun collection and is a fine example of its kind. (The powder horn hangs ready below.)

Near the fireplace is a pierced tin lantern, the kind used before glass lanterns were perfected.

"It's sometimes called a 'Paul Revere lantern' because people thought that's what he used, but this is erroneous," Mrs. Johnson explains. "It didn't give any light at all, and you couldn't have signalled anybody with it."

Against the "whitewashed walls of the kitchen", the Society has arranged black wrought-iron kitchen tools and utensils, like the wafer irons (they resemble hamburger-pattie forms) used to make elaborate cookies for family celebrations. Inside, both halves of the round mold have elaborate designs so that the cookie came out with a bas-relief pattern.

A mysterious, spidery wrought iron tool turns out to be designed for the pipe-smoker. The long tongs plucked an ember from the fire to light the pipe, the round top tamped it all down into the bowl. Historians say this is a fine example of the tool.

From Hackensack. One of the rarest items in the exhibit is an 18-inch high wooden rack for spoons, from the Hackensack Valley.

"This was really an early form of art," Mrs. Johnson explains, touching the careful spiral carving and the star wheel. It dates from 18th-century New Jersey.

The state—and indeed the Princeton area—is represented by pottery attributed to Princeton's own Jugtown (the area where Nassau and Harrison now intersect), Flemington (still known for its household wares), Lambertville, Trenton and Elizabeth.

The Society is especially fond of a hound-handled pitcher. The dog forms the handle, and he has been molded in the act of springing at a deer. Around his neck is a collar bearing the words "Jersey City" and "Henderson"—the potter. The pitcher is curiously glazed, apparently dipped upside-down so that only the top part received the glaze. The bottom third of the pitcher is unglazed.

Pudding and butter molds in rich earthen colors might have come from today's markets. The simple, clean and curving lines of the jugs and bowls show that good, functional design does not change.

Make A Candle. One cupboard in the kitchen contains lighting devices of one kind or another. The candle molds are here, and an 18th-century tinderbox.

From the collection of Walter Fullam, the Society has borrowed a spoon mold, the kind of spoon in which early metal-workers melted down the metal they worked with.

Candlesticks, of course, and a rush lamp, and some lamps combining both rush and candle-holders, just to make sure. Although an inexperienced citizen of the twentieth century might wonder about the juxtaposition of rush and candle-flame.

In a corner, the Society has arranged an early 20th-century collection labelled "What is it?" with a list of answers, conveniently on the wall. A cucumber fluter. Various devices for holding yarn. A mousetrap. And a panel with vertically sliding wooden strips labelled P, Q and P-B? What on earth....

A message for the milkman, of course. "P" for a pint, "Q" for quart and "P-B" for a pint of grade-B milk.

For the contemporary householder, the moral of this exhibit is quite clear. It isn't Woman's-Work-is-Never-Done, but—don't throw out that 1952 barbecue!

Day of the Dolphin (Prince). "This movie will astonish you with information about the Dolphin", says Parents, and "although there are a few curse words and references to sex, it would be a shame to deprive children of such a good experience"

From what the Family Movie Committee understands, publicity concerning training a dolphin to kill the president was written when the film did not receive good reviews in New York and publicists wanted to increase interest. It tells one something about what a drawing card violence has become in our society.

"WITCH END"

Ready, for Children. Regular readers will recall that when last we heard from the children's branch of Pennington Players, its members were busy rehearsing the annual children's production. This year's title: "Witch End is Up."

out

Dining out makes good sense...

- ★ no dishes to wash
- ★ no pots to scrub
- ★ no shopping to do
- ★ no left-overs to eat
- ★ it's just plain enjoyable and really, when you get down to costs and consider all the conveniences it's just about as costly to eat at home.

Put this all on top of the fine food you get at the Nassau Inn

- ★ plus the wonderful atmosphere
- ★ plus the splendid service and you have truly impressive reasons for dining out at the Nassau Inn.

And to top it all — at the Nassau Inn in Princeton, you can pick from

- ★ three of the finest restaurants in the area

There's no place quite like the "Nass" and there's no time like now to enjoy eating out... to the fullest.

DADDY AND MOMMY. In Edward Albee's "The American Dream," Daddy (Jamie Horton) promises Mommy (Winnie Holzman) that he'll get the leak in the john fixed. The play is on a Theatre Intime double bill with Albee's "The Sandbox," and it will open Thursday, March 14.

"TWO, FROM ALBEE"
At Intime. Two plays by Edward Albee will open next Thursday, March 14, at Murray Theatre on the University campus, continuing next Friday and Saturday, and the weekend of Thursday, Friday and Saturday, March 21, 22 and 23. Curtain time is 8:30 p.m. and reservations may be made at 452-8181.

"The American Dream" is a well-known Albee; "The Sandbox," less familiar. Both plays deal with the same characters, but in "The Sandbox," the action is more compressed and stylized. In "The American Dream," Albee describes a day in the life of Mommy, Daddy and Grandma and their differing reactions to two inexplicable arrivals. It's a long and unpleasant story, as each character slowly realizes the meaning of the arrivals.

Jim Shankman is directing a cast consisting entirely of Princeton University students. All the actors, and Mr. Shankman, have appeared frequently in Theatre Intime productions or in Triangle shows.

JAZZ PIANIST TO PLAY

At Alexander Hall. World-renowned jazz pianist McCoy Tyner will make his Princeton debut this Friday at 8 in Alexander Hall. The appearance coincides closely with the release of Tyner's fourth album for Milestone records, "Enlightenment." The Princeton concert is sponsored by WPRB-FM, the undergraduate radio station. McCoy Tyner's career includes several years with saxophone giant John Coltrane's quartet. As a leader of his own quartet, Tyner has earned a number of honors from critics and musicians of the jazz world. Highest among them is the recognition from "Downbeat" magazine for the best jazz LP of 1972, Sahara. Tyner's current quartet features saxophone player Azar Lawrence.

The visit to Princeton comes at a time when a number of jazz artists, among them pianists Chick Corea and Herbie Hancock, are enjoying wider popularity among rock-oriented college-age listeners. Tickets, priced at $4.50 and $4, are available in advance at the Princeton University Store, 36 University Place, and will be available at the door.

FOLKSINGER TO APPEAR
At Witherspoon Church. Scottish folksinger Jean Redpath will appear in concert on Friday, March 8, at 8:15 in the Witherspoon Street Presbyterian Church, Witherspoon and Quarry Streets. The concert is sponsored by the Princeton Folk Music Society. General admission is $2 and $1.50 for students. Members get a discount and memberships will be available at the door.

INDIAN MUSIC ON TAP

In Woolworth Center. The Friends of Music at Princeton, with the cooperation of the South Asia Regional Studies Department of the University of Pennsylvania and the College of Fine Arts of Banaras Hindu University, will present a concert of Classical Indian Music on Saturday at 8:30 in Woolworth Center. The concert of Hindustani instrumental music will be performed by Dr. Lalmani Misra on the vichitra veena, a plucked stringed instrument and by Iswar Lal on the tabla (drums). Dr. Misra is Professor of Music at Banaras Hindu University and currently Visiting Professor at the University of Pennsylvania. Mr. Lal is resident artist at Banaras Hindu University and is also at the University of Pennsylvania this year, as visiting artist.

The concert is open to the public, admission free.

BACH PROGRAM PLANNED

By Graduate Student. Elaine Sisman, pianist, will play an all-Bach program in Woolworth Center Sunday at 3:30. The concert is sponsored by the Friends of Music at Princeton.

Miss Sisman is a second-year graduate student in Music History in the Princeton University Music Department. Born in New York City, she studied for six years at the Juilliard School pre-college division and won its Rooney Coffey award upon graduation. She was a performance major at Cornell University and has continued her piano studies at Princeton with Robert Helps. Miss Sisman performed in four concerts of the International Bach Society, directed by Rosalyn Tureck.

Her program here will be the Capriccio in B-flat Major (On the Departure of a Beloved Brother); Toccata and Fugue in E Minor; Chromatic Fantasy and Fugue in D Minor and Partita No. 4 in D Major.

SINGERS SOUGHT

For Musical Amateurs. The Princeton Society of Musical Amateurs will meet Sunday at 5 at the Unitarian Church, Cherry Hill Road, off Route 206. Professor J. Merrill Knapp will conduct the Handel "Queen Caroline Anthem" for chorus, orchestra, and soloists as follows: June Tipton, soprano; Mimmi Fulmer, alto; John McLain, tenor; Norman Rubin, bass. The concertmaster for this reading will be Curt Carlson. Anyone interested in choral singing is cordially invited to participate or attend. No auditions are necessary for the chorus, and no special requirements other than modest sight-reading ability. For reservation call Mrs. Michael Ramus at 924-4266. There is a small charge for anyone without a yearly membership to cover music and refreshments.

FROM THE RENAISSANCE

Pro Musica Antiqua. An opera from the Renaissance, fully staged and costumed, will be presented at McCarter on Tuesday, April 2, at 8:30 p.m. by the Pro Musica Antiqua.

The opera, "La Dafne," was written in 1608 by Mario da Galiano for the Mantuan Carnival season. The musical score has been reconstructed from its original, and quite sketchy form, by George Houle, music director of the Pro Musica.

Dances from the early 17th century have been recreated by Wendy Hilton and costumes and sets have been executed by Santo Loquasto.

Although the film's premise that dolphins cannot only mimic but actually learn to think and talk in English is somewhat far-fetched, Nichols has managed nonetheless to instill the situation with enough logic and intelligence to sustain credibility. The dolphins themselves emerge as unique, tender creatures, showing a remarkable degree of intelligence and building up a surprising amount of empathy.

Happy New Year. A beautifully romantic, brisk caper of the heist of the Van Cleef and Arpels shop in Cannes by the French Director Claude ("A Man And a Woman") Lelouch. It succeeds both as a romance and thriller.

"Happy Yew Year" begins in black and white, as Lino Ventura, who is completely irresistible as the brains of the operation, is paroled after six years in prison. Returning to his apartment, his thoughts turn backward as the film becomes a full color flashback detailing the events leading up to his parole. The action then centers on the ingeniously detailed plot that Ventura and fellow-crook Charles Gerard contrive to pull their first "psychological" heist. They use sharp wits to create two mythical vacationers, a wealthy old man and his diligent chauffeur. Meantime, Ventura becomes involved with a woman who owns an adjoining antique shop, meeting her cool and free intellectualism with his charm and simplicity. Eventually, they make love but their bliss is short lived. Gerard managed to escape with the loot but Ventura is caught and jailed. The film reverts to the present (black and white again) with Ventura returning to his apartment—she's kicked the other man out as the film makes a bow to the liberated woman—to face a changed world, changed woman and uncertain future. Throughout, Lelouch, whose touch is light, lets the delicacy of dialogue and action work on their own merits—all to the advantage of a lovely film.

PLAYHOUSE
Executive Action. An intriguing but shallow political film that asserts that the Kennedy assassination in Dallas was the result of a large scale conspiracy. It contains some intriguing information and does a lot of pontificating but on the really important things—the whys and wherefores—it fudges. Its main appeal will be to those who yet again want to relive those awful days. What the film does convey—disturbingly—is how criminally unprepared law and order officials were, whether it was a complex conspiracy or a one-man job. For all intents and purposes, President Kennedy was a sitting duck. Films like "Executive Action" can only be made because so many mysteries remain of the whole affair that were never cleared up. The situation is ripe for someone's imagination. Dramatically, the roles are little more than mouthpiece parts for such fine actors as Robert Ryan (this was his last film), Burt Lancaster and Will Geer, who either monotonously shovel in information about the events leading up to November 22 or add to their villainy. Among the things the film would have us believe is that a special decoy deliberately impersonated Lee Harvey Oswald for some day prior to the murder; that Jack Ruby's murder was planned by the conspirators and that the conspirators themselves were men of such political and financial power that they could individually see to it that code books were removed from top security air force jets and that phone lines were disrupted all over Washington on that fatal day. In the end, the film is harmless because it can make so little linkage with what is known to have taken place.

PRINCE
The Day of The Dolphin. This film by director Mike Nichols, his first since "Carnal Knowledge" and starring George C. Scott, is a moral thriller, centering on a research project in which dolphins have been trained to think and talk. It probes the question, Can scientific inquiry be carried out for its own sake and not harnessed to a particular application? Scott is engaged in training dolphins to mimic simple human speech patterns and eventually respond to simple verbal commands in an isolated research base in the Bahamas. A persistent snooper blackmails the administrator of the foundation which is backing Scott into granting him access to the labs. While Scott initially suspects the intruder has some sinister government affiliation, it turns out that the "foundation" itself has planted a saboteur in the project as part of a bizarre plan to use the dolphins to plant mines under the

a special town deserves a special bank

We don't expect wide-spread debate over the distinctiveness of Princeton, but you may want to know what's so special about New Jersey National Bank of Princeton.

To begin with, we're the newest bank in town. Which means we're not timid about coming out with new services. We were the first Princeton bank to raise interest rates on savings when Federal regulations permitted increases. And we were the first bank in town to offer you the choice of either a statement or a passbook savings plan. We also have the best checking account in this area. Plus a lot of fancy new equipment that enables us to handle your transactions faster and more efficiently.

Despite this, there's something about us that's decidedly old-fashion—our service. We honor quaint outdated customs like calling customers by name instead of by number. And if you ask for something unusual, such as a check of past records of one of your accounts, we'll go right to the files and dig out the information for you. Our concept of service isn't restricted to banking, either. For example, we have a bulletin board in our lobby that can be reserved by local organizations to promote activities of general interest. We also exhibit the works of area artists in our office.

In striving for a harmonious blend of progress and tradition, we believe we're patterning ourselves after the town we serve—Princeton. This idea is summed up in our new slogan: The bank is new, the friendliness is old-fashion. If you're interested in seeing what a special bank is like, visit our office at 194 Nassau Street. And when someone greets you with a friendly hello, don't bother looking around for your next-door neighbor. That was one of our employees welcoming you.

The bank is new, the friendliness is old-fashion.

"Good Reasons" Unavailable.
To the Editor of Town Topics:
Following is a copy of a letter I have written to Mr.
and Mrs. James S. Thornton:
W B ALLEN

68 Magnolia Lane
I read your letter to the Princeton First Aid and Rescue Squad published in Town Topics, doubling your contribution since they had informed you of their "Good Reasons" for not admitting women to membership. You are to be admired for keeping your pledge.

It is unfortunate that neither the Princeton First Aid and Rescue Squad or you have seen fit to inform the public what the "Good Reasons" are.
My curiosity is even greater than most, since I was a member of that organization for approximately two years
prior to my resignation
September 30, 1973.

The only compelling reason
I heard for barring women
was that several members,
very experienced in first aid and rescue work, threatened to resign if women were admitted. Such resignations would have seriously hampered the squad's operation over a short term.

It is very difficult for me to take as compelling the lack of suitable quarters for women sleeping in since: (1) the question of admitting women and not having them sleep in,
and (2) the question of building adequate separate sleeping facilities for women
when the new building addition is constructed (as announced in the local papers) were never seriously broached to the squad membership. I remark that in the two years I was in the squad there was no difficulty in excusing members from night duty if they were available for and took day calls. Further note that the cost of the attorney's fees to date would probably have paid for those building modifications necessary to provide separate sleeping facilities for women so adequate as to assure there would be no offense to public morality.

I think it appropriate that the "Good Reasons" for barring women be divulged to the Princeton community which supported the squad with contributions in excess of $30,000 in the fiscal year ending July 31, 1973. I hope you can use your good offices to persuade the Princeton First Aid and Rescue Squad to make a public statement as to their "Good Reasons."

Again you are to be commended for your generosity. I trust that you can have no objection to my sending a copy of this letter to Town Topics which published your letter.

Discrimination Costs Support.
To the Editor of Town Topics:
Following is the text of a letter I have written to the Princeton First Aid and Rescue Squad.

I wish to congratulate you on the wonderful service that you are rendering to our community. Without the help of many who have volunteered their services to your organization, the Rescue Squad would not have the fine record that it holds today.

One aspect of your service that puzzles me, however, is your unwillingness to accept women who have volunteered their services to you. I am curious as to the criteria required by you before accepting your members. I also wonder if in the course of performing your duties, a woman might not have been an asset from time to time, especially when dealing with women patients.

Credit Where It's Due.

To the Editor of Town Topics:
I was somewhat dismayed by your report that the acquisition of an IBM 1130 by the High School had been given lengthy and thoughtful consideration by a Citizen's Panel made up of myself and three other citizens. The Citizen's Panel is comprised of myself, Michael Barnett, Roald Buhler, William
Godwin, Woody Kauffman,
Henry Powsner, Irving
Rabinowitz, Burnett Sams, and Wesley Walton.

Some time ago the Panel made several recommendations concerning the proposed educational program and the appropriate hardware to support it. Our recommendations differ in a number of significant points from the program described in your story. To mention just one, the Panel recommended that the School acquire and RJE (Remote Job Entry) capability that would allow them to use the extensive computing resources of the University. The computer obtained by the school is designed primarily as a stand-alone system for administrative use. It is an obsolete system, not cost effective, and generally unsuited for the educational program of the schools.

The fact that nursing is a predominantly female profession and the fact that women have a better driving record than men makes me wonder where your decision not to accept women volunteers comes from?

This policy has made it impossible for me to support you and I would hope for a change in policy in the very near future.

LOUISE M. SAMAROO
203 Bertrand Drive

It is, I think most unfortunate that the administration of the school system chooses to ignore the assistance of the Panel's experienced and highly skilled professionals in this area which has such significance both for the budget and the educational program.

CARLE HELM
Chairman, Citizen's Panel

regrets the omission of the names of other members of the panel.)

Highly Enjoyable Evening.
To the Editor of Town Topics:
"He That Plays the King Shall be Welcome", and as a member of the Princeton Community, I would like to extend my thanks to Mr. Dan Seltzer and the Princeton University English Department, for presenting "him".

Last Wednesday evening the walls of Alexander Hall rang with the plight of Shakespeare's kings. In a superb reading, Mr. Ian Richardson brought the Kings to life, and gave their words
new emphasis and meaning.
In addition to Wednesday's reading we were fortunate enough to have Mr. Richardson present three seminars on the Bard (all of which, were open to the public). The Kings have gone...but their thoughts will remain with many of us, for a long time. "Thanks to you all, (at Princeton) believe it..."

Entitled "Curator's Choice," this traveling exhibition gives the New Jersey State Council on the Arts an opportunity to "present artists living in New Jersey who have achieved national reputations," according to the sponsors. Each artist will be represented by at least two works not previously shown in New Jersey. The Tomasulo exhibition will run through March 29.

From Bean Sprouts to Jade at Orient Shop

At 15 Witherspoon Street, there is a long narrow store where it is possible to find something for almost every aspect of life. Mrs. Mavis Chang has filled The Orient Shop with everything from bean sprouts to a jade necklace.

For the kitchen we saw lucite recipe boxes with plastic sides of yellow, orange or black, $5.50; and bright pictures of flowers or vegetables that are really magnetic memo holders, $2.75.

Glass containers by Kitchen Chemistry are here and our favorite was a set of six spice jars with cork tops sitting on a lucite shelf. The shop has a lovely set of grey pottery with a brown and blue design that is available in cups, coffee pot and oven-proof casseroles, $4.50 to $12.

The indoor gardener can find planters in most any shape from a small rectangular dish to a deep red scalloped bowl. We also saw a large square flower arranger with 49 holes that can be used alone or inside a bowl as a frog, $3.95; a set of indoor tools in bright colors, $4.95; and tiny animals, bridges and buildings for terrariums.

Mrs. Chang has a nice selection of oriental foods, and if you are new to this cooking she has the "Wei-Chuan Cooking Book of Chinese Cuisine" that covers appetizers to desserts.

Among the jewelry there are small silver rings with turquoise stones from $2, a necklace of multi-colored agates, and several gold and jade bracelets, $15.95.

We also saw several thoughts for children such as a small kaleidoscope, red and blue wooden castanets with bells for an added noise effect, surprise balls for party favors, and a range of mobiles, 55 cents and up.

The Orient Shop is open Monday through Saturday from 9:30 until 5:30.

SHOES DISCOUNTED

At The Shoe Barn. Shortly before Belle Meade on Route 206, there is a huge red old-fashioned high boot hanging in front of an old, deep red barn. This enchanting building, known as The Shoe Barn, is filled with boxes of men's and women's shoes, all at discount prices.

Owner, Ray Katz, purchases the shoes directly from the manufacturers such as Golo, Moxees, Dunhams and many others, thus saving the expense of a middle man. The lines represent current styles that were over-produced, discontinued styles, and some left-overs from last year.

The comfortable atmosphere of the barn and the clear display of shoes (with available sizes and colors immediately below) made it easy for us to browse. Some of the spring styles are already here, and more are coming.

By Golo, there is a black patent leather sandal with two rows of crossed straps and a low wooden heel, $12.95. This shoe also comes in navy or white kid. Another Golo sandal with three straps connected by bamboo circles and a bamboo heel comes in navy kid or black patent, also $12.95.

And From Brazil. From Brazil we saw a white or butter cream patent leather sling-back low platform shoe with a medium stacked wooden heel, $16.95. Then for a comfortable all-day shoe by Lujann there is a loafer-style set on a thick crepe sole, $19.95.

Walking around we saw everything from a traditional loafer and classic pump in several colors to gold and silver sandals for evening wear. We especially liked the handsome El Greco platform shoes in navy, green or red with a top-stitching design around the foot opening, $25.95.

A thickly padded black campus boot with a heavy walking sole by Dunhams laces to just above the ankle; while the Eskipades boot by Dunhams is higher, pile lined and comes in tan and brown suede, $19.95 and $22.95 respectively.

Both Dunhams and Moxees make a wide selection of laced school-girl shoes with platform, crepe or thick rubber soles. The color choices range from brown and tan or red and grey to gold and red or pale blue suede with white patent trim, $12.95 to $14.95.

The men's shoes are upstairs in the loft and here we saw a blue or brown patent leather dress shoe with a gold buckle by Nunn-Bush; a light brown slip-on trimmed with braided leather across the foot by Verde; and a brown kid platform shoe with a stacked heel by Harbor. There are boots for men, including some by Dingo, and the prices for the men's shoes range from $16.95 to $38.95.

The Shoe Barn can also outfit the whole family in sneakers. Men have a choice of Keds or Converse, and women and children can choose from several colors of Keds. Our favorites were the Peanuts boot, a red, white and blue high sneaker for children, $3.95.

The Shoe Barn on Route 206 North is open from 10 until 6 Monday to Saturday and Thursday and Friday evenings until 9.

TENNIS "WHITES" OUT

Bright Colors In. With tennis continuing its steady climb in popularity in the country and matches now on big color TV's, the world of fashion has taken over the tennis scene. "Whites" are no longer a requirement for court play, and the big word this season is color.

Throughout the winter John Conroy has been visiting tennis shows, representing the Education and Research Committee of the U.S. Lawn Tennis Association. However, he has also kept his Princeton Indoor Tennis Center on Washington Road in mind and has been buying for the pro shop.

The orders have arrived and at the moment the shop is about as full as it can possibly be with a tremendous number of different tennis outfits. One nice aspect here is that Mr. Conroy doesn't order more than three sizes of any one style, so you are unlikely to find yourself facing a twin across the net.

The new Mondessa line is probably the hottest one, utilizing lots of color. A white jewel-necked dress has been made exciting by a navy hem spotted with red dots, a red flower on the front and a rear pocket complete with a terry cloth wipe that has been lined with red. Topping it all off are pants trimmed with red ruffles, $40.

A similar Mondessa dress has blue banding around the hem which comes up the front in a double line and ends as a flower with a yellow center. It also has a rear pocket with a terry wipe-lined in yellow this time—and pants with blue ruffles, $38.

Quantum has a pretty scoop-necked dress with green piping around the hem that grows up the front of the dress as a stem to a large pink tulip, $30, and by Spharistike we saw a soft white dress with a wide ribbed waist in red, yellow, pink, green and

Mr. Conroy suggested that the well-dressed tennis player should have a warm-up suit for spring and fall playing, and here color is even stronger. One suit comes in green or blue with a battle-style jacket trimmed with white ribbed cuffs and waist, while others in pastel colors are trimmed with a double contrasting piping, $32 to $50.

In the men's section we also saw lots of color, especially in the shirts which are great with white shorts. However, we did see blue or yellow shorts and the warm-ups come in navy, white or red.

The shop also has lots of tennis extras, from ruffled pants in many colors, to ties with crossed rackets, tennis glasses and even invitations to a tennis party.

Princeton Indoor Tennis Center is located on Washington Road, east of Route One; and although a membership is necessary to play tennis (applications are available), the pro shop is open to the public from 7 to 11 daily.

Winemaking That Started as Hobby Now a Full-Time Business

A claret or white wine for $1.25 a bottle? A dry rose for $1.45? Blackberry for $1.35? That Nirvana of every wine drinker—a good wine at a reasonable price—can be found at the Pennytown Shopping Village on Route 31, a few miles north of Pennington, where B&B Vineyards Inc. opened its doors five weeks ago.

B&B Vineyards is the story of two young men, a former stockbroker and a former chemical engineer, who first met as undergraduates at the University of Pennsylvania. Its origin and growth follows a familiar pattern: from hobby to devotion of every spare moment to the time when even the job had to go to accommodate what has become a new career.

It's a sequence that Bob Bodine Jr. and John Boyd are familiar with. Mr. Bodine, 30, a native of New Hope, Pa., was until last May a stockbroker who "loved the stock-broking end but hated commuting."

Mr. Boyd, a year younger, earned his degree in chemical engineering from Cornell University Graduate School but this native of Milford left his job last February to become, with Bodine, a fulltime winemaker.

The two own and operate what they call "New Jersey's smallest winery"—six acres of grapes under cultivation about five miles outside Stockton. They extend a standing invitation to visit the winery and see how their wine is made and aged. There is no charge for parking, tasting...or advice on winemaking. During the past crushing season, B&B Vineyards processed 15,000 gallons of grape wine, more than double its original projection.

Under their B&B label, John

FINE WINES AT INEXPENSIVE PRICES: Former stockbroker and now fulltime winemaker Bob Bodine stands behind selection of his wines offered by B&B Vineyards which range from $1.20 to $1.45 per bottle. Wines are made at their own vineyard outside Stockton. Story this page.

and Bob began selling wine last June at their Stockton vineyard. A little over a month ago they opened a retail outlet at the Pennytown Shopping Village. "It's the first time," said Bob, "that a winery every applied for state and federal licenses in New Jersey to sell wine outside its own winery."

All this is the culmination of a hobby begun when John received a wine-making kit for Christmas six years ago.

"Phenomenally Popular." The reception accorded B&B wines "has been way above our expectation," said Bob, speaking at the Pennytown outlet. "They've been phenomenally popular."

An increased interest and use of wine in recent years is one of the factors responsible, Bob agreed, but he felt even more so was the inexpensive cost. "The prices are extremely reasonable for the quality."

Presently, B&B makes four grape wines—a red, a semi-sweet white like a sauterne, two roses and two fruit wines, apple and blackberry. "The red is like a claret...there's nothing comparable to it," says Bob. The Dry Rose, as opposed to the Vin Rose ($1.25), has more California grapes in it and has "just a hint of sweetness." It sells for $1.45 a bottle. All prices, incidentally, include tax.

The Apple Wine ($1.20) is made from Jersey cider, while the Blackberry, "the sweetest wine we have but not as syrupy as most Blackberry wines," costs $1.35. John and Bob recently planted 30 apple trees and hope, in four or five years, to have their own apple supply.

Wine From Honey. Bob reported that B&B will soon have available a Hunterdon County Red Wine made from a very young fruit grape which ("we hope") will resemble a Beaujolais. Also planned is another drier white.

There is a seventh wine, their most expensive, and one which they are especially proud of: Mead. Bob described Mead, a wine made from honey, as "the oldest alcoholic beverage known to man. It's very difficult to make."

Most Mead wines are very sweet, but B&B's is light...almost dry...with just a faint taste of honey. It can be drunk with meals. Production at B&B is limited to a few barrels and the supply never lasts long. At $2.50 say the partners, it is a dazzling bargain. One sip will convince.

Their Mead, said Bob, was the only wine served by a state senator at a recent fund-raising dinner.

Must Are Blends: Most B&B wines are blends of different grapes to be consistent, "which I think is a good trait," Bob commented. How good are they? How would B&B's red compare with, say, a Cabernet Sauvignon from California?

"I think John put it best when he said 'It's hard to prove to me that a $20 bottle of wine is ten times better than a $2 bottle,'" said Bob. John, who operates the winery and does the blending has almost absolute taste. He can recognize most characteristics, said Bob, who added that he was constantly trying to improve his own taste.

"There's too much superstition and mystical talk that goes along with wine that's just not true," he continued. "It's a beverage. Drink what you like. I don't go along with this snobbery...that's associated with wine."

One More Year. As yet, Bob and John have not been able to use any of their own grapes in the production of their wine. "We're in the third year of growth and it takes four before you get your first clippings," explained Bob.

On their six acres they do a considerable amount of experimentation with European-American varietal grapes such as the Baco Noir, designed to resist the dread phylloxera disease that attacked the roots of the classic European vinifera varietals in the late 19th century and made it virtually impossible to grow them successfully in this country.

"We happen to have an ideal climate for grape growing, one of the finest in the area," said Bob. The high cost of land has temporarily stymied their desire to add more acreage to their vineyard but even if they were able to purchase land they would never be able to meet their grape needs. As a result, they get a lot of their grapes from California, others from New York and South Jersey. They also have farmers around the Lambertville area growing the European-type hybrid vines under their direction.

Bob and John receive more help from their wives who help serve the numerous wine and cheese tastings that B&B Vineyards conduct for such groups as the Kiwanis and garden clubs.

"We're Happy." Their Pennytown store is filled with books on wines and winemaking supplies. "I enjoy getting people interested in it," says Bob. "We can supply everything you need: 50 gallon oak barrels, grapes—the whole ball of wax."

And there is no snobbery at Pennytown. A big, personable man who dresses casually, Bob encourages visitors to sample the wine. His enthusiasm is the enthusiasm of one who knows and likes what he is doing. "Enjoy, enjoy," he says as he hands a customer his purchase. "We're not setting the world on fire," he said, "but we're happy."

The B&B Pennytown store is open Tuesday through Saturday from 10 to 6, Friday evenings 'til 8. It is closed Sunday and Monday.

SPORTS FANS!

I BET YOU DIDN'T KNOW

Brought to you
 By John Bernard

Here's a surprising baseball fact...Did you know that Pete Rose of the Cincinnati Reds has now made more hits in his first 11 years in the big leagues than Ty Cobb did in his first 11 years—and Cobb eventually wound up with more hits than anybody else who ever played baseball...In his first 11 years Cobb had 1,937 hits, while Rose has made 2,152.

Here's a basketball oddity...Only once in the last 20 years has the team that had the scoring leader in the National Basketball Association also won the championship of the NBA...The only time it's happened in the last 20 years was the 1970-71 season when Kareem Abdul-Jabbar of Milwaukee won the scoring title and Milwaukee won the NBA championship. You'd think having the scoring champ would help a team win the league title, but it hasn't worked out that way.

Oddly enough, of all the hundreds of men who have been big league baseball managers in history, not one has ever had a last name starting with the letter "Y"...That seems hard to believe, but it's true.

Tiger Hockey Team (9-14-1) Improves Markedly But Many Question Marks Becloud Its Future

If a Princeton hockey team ever manages to match the pent-up enthusiasm displayed by the faithful Rink Rats who support it in victory and defeat, it would be a lead-pipe cinch to earn its way into the NCAA playoffs.

As the Orange and Black skated off the ice for the final time last week after losing in desultory fashion by 4-1 to a strictly ordinary Penn team, it did so to a continuing round of standing applause. The fans, were saying, "We're going out of the rink thinking only of the high spots (the astonishing victories over Cornell and Dartmouth, the rally that beat Yale, the near-success against Harvard, the eventual Ivy champion) and never mind about those that got away."

If the Tigers did move out of the league basement for the first time in four years by winning as many Ivy games this winter as they totalled in the last three, there is still no real indication that the upswing in hockey fortunes here will continue. Working against continuation of the upward trend are these factors:

- The strong likelihood that nothing close to a replacement will be found for the graduating goalie, Phil Robinson, whose three-year ability and attitude won him the Blackwell Trophy. Neither at the varsity level nor from the current freshmen—an 11-man squad that was buried under a 4-13-1 record—is there potential to keep the Tigers afloat in the sea of shots that cascades steadily against the Princeton goal.

- The loss of two thirds of the first line in Walt Snickenberger, a constant scoring threat, and Captain Clay Kyle, who improved steadily during his three year-career and this winter centered well for Snick and junior Mark Stuckey.
- The likelihood that the

Harvard Takes Title

Harvard won its first Ivy League hockey championship in 11 years Saturday when it followed a 6-2 defeat of Dartmouth at Hanover last Wednesday with a 10-3 victory over Yale in its own Watson Rink.

The Crimson's success ended a string of eight straight titles won by Cornell The Ithacans and Harvard divided their series, each winning on the other's ice, but Cornell losses to Brown, Yale and Princeton on the road totaled to one more defeat than Harvard sustained. The 1974 champions also lost to Yale at New haven and Dartmouth at Cambridge.

SPORTS in Princeton

CHAMPIONSHIPS HERE

In Eastern Swimming, Harvard and defending champion Princeton are rated as the co-favorites for the 34th Annual Eastern Seaboard Swimming and Diving Championships scheduled for Princeton University's Dillon Pool Thursday through Saturday.

The Crimson walloped Princeton, 82-31, in a dual meet at Cambridge in early February, but Tiger coach Bill Farley feels that his team's tremendous 91-22 win over Yale was an indicator that Princeton will give Harvard all it can handle. It was the worst defeat Yale ever suffered in the sport.

Swimmers from 21 colleges will compete in the three-day affair and a number of Eastern meet records may fall. Time trials will be held each day at noon with championship and consolation finals scheduled each evening at 7:30.

There are tickets for both

TROPHY WINNER: The Blackwell Trophy for outstanding ability and sportsmanship went to goalie Phil Robinson, whose play was a major factor in Tiger hockey team's improvement this year.

high scoring Craig Dahl, leading goal-maker on the team at the time of his departure, will not return to college in September after withdrawing in mid-February for academic reasons. A team as short of shooting ability as this one needs every offensive weapon it can suit up.

- The imponderable lack of desire that periodically worked against the team while playing opponents of no great ability. At Williamstown in late December, the Tigers not only lost to a Williams sextet that ranks no higher than seventh among Division II teams but to Bishops University, which Williams trounced, 9 to 4. Then, with a 12-13-1 record still to be had for playing top-level hockey down the stretch, it was beaten on its own ice by Brown, Colgate and Penn to close out at a far less respectable 9-14-1.

The nine victories were five more than last year's team managed on ice, since one of its triumphs was a forfeit required of Boston University after using an ineligible player. In addition to the victories over Cornell and Dartmouth here, the Tigers split with Brown and swept Yale, winning non-league games from St. Lawrence and Providence and, in Division II, from Army and Bowdoin. Off the major question-marks about the future, the continued trials and finals, and a special ticket to cover all events. Further information can be obtained by calling 452-3538.

VILLANOVA TAKES IC4-A

Edges Manhattan by 1 Point.

In the first IC4-A indoor track meet decided by a single point in the last decade, Manhattan won from Villanova, 29-28, last weekend in Jadwin Gymnasium. Some 4,500 spectators watched the finals of the two-day event on Sunday.

Thirty-one of the 73 colleges entered scored a point or more. Princeton tied for 25th with 3.

SQUASH TITLES WON

By Princeton. Wendy Zaharko, a senior at Princeton, won the National Women's Intercollegiate Squash Rackets championship Sunday when she defeated Dartmouth sophomore Barbara Sands, 15-4, 15-9, 15-5, in the finals of the tournament held in Jadwin Gym. In three days of play, Miss Zaharko did not lose a game.

Earlier in the week, the men's varsity squash team tied for the national championship on the strength of a 8-1 defeat of Dartmouth. The Tigers were ranked first with Harvard, which they had beaten for the first time in a strength in the sport at Harvard, Cornell and Dartmouth and the resurgence at Brown, which had one of the top freshman teams in the east, Princeton may well find its victory totals of this season difficult to match next winter.

Little Appeal in Finale.

About the only bright spots in the 4-1 loss to Penn in the last game of the year were the fact that the Tigers scored first and later twice kept the Quakers from scoring while they had a two-man advantage. In the first period, ability to do so for 53 seconds protected a 1-1 tie but on the second occasion—again for 53 seconds at game's end—the visitors were sitting on a three-goal lead while Snickenberger and Brian McIntosh closed out their careers in the penalty box.

The Orange and Black broke out in front at 7:28 of the opening round when sophomore Gary O'Meara tipped in a blue-line shot fired by defenseman Jim Damberger. Three minutes later, however, with Paul Dionne in the bin, Penn scored on a power play.

The Quakers took the lead at 17:43 of the middle round, largely because no one bothered a Penn forward while he wound up for a semislap shot in center ice just 15 feet out. The visitors then matched their December margin over Princeton with a pair of third period goals, outshooting the losers in the final minutes, 19 to 8.

It was a dismal closing session, but the Rink Rats—who had twice come in such numbers that the SRO sign went up for the first time in many years—stood and applauded at the final whistle with sweet memories of the better things, and maybe that's the best way to look back.

Princeton Quintet, Runner-Up Again, Looks Ahead To '75 But Finds It Hard to See Beyond 2d Place

Princeton's basketball team, finishing in the Ivy League's runner-up spot for the third year in a row, figures in the early book on the 1974-75 season to be there again next March. Unfortunately for Tiger fans, however, it is more likely that their team will have its hands full beating off the challenge of a steadily-improving Brown quintet than that it will have a solid shot at unseating first-place Pennsylvania.

Next season's Princeton squad will be without the services of Captain Andy Rimol, a three-year regular; two frequently invaluable reserves, Joe Vavricka and John Berger, who often came off the bench to score in double figures; and, presumably, Armond Hill, the sophomore who had been counted on to direct the Tigers' attack for two more years until he left college last month. Whereas Penn and Brown can expect to be at least as good as they have been this winter, there is no way the holdover Princetonians and the mediocre freshman quintet can make up for the loss of those four players.

Two factors will work for the Orange and Black: the returning personnel will improve with every game played, and such development combined with the unfailing ability of Princeton basketball to play to the top level of its potential will keep the Tigers going at a highly-respectable pace.

With the final figures still to be compiled, this year's team is among the top five nationally in defense (57 points per game) and in free throw percentage (approximately 78 percent on the season.) That sort of ability will not be lost.

But the loss of Rimol at 6-9 and Vavricka and Berger at 6-5 will move 6-7 Barnes Hauptfuhrer into the center's slot and leave Coach Pete Carril with 6-5 Bob Slaughter as the lone forward of any size with varsity experience. The Tigers could get killed rebounding.

To top it off, Rimol and Hill were the team's top scorers, even though neither was averaging more than 13

Cornell, Columbia Trounced. Whereas some teams with no great incentive in their final two games might have found themselves scrambling to beat inferior opponents away from home, the Tigers last weekend subdued Cornell and Columbia with total authority. It was 89-65 at Ithaca (the 15th straight triumph over the troubled Ithacans, who were 3-23 on the season) and 70-43 over Columbia.

A 67 percent floor average in the opening round at Cornell broke that game open before the intermission, as a mere handful of spectators watched in Barton Hall, which once turned fans away from its 6,000 seat capacity. For the second time in the current decade, a Cornell coach resigned in mid-season, and now the Ithacans are in trouble with the NCAA for improper recruiting procedures.

In New York Saturday, the Tigers closed out the basketball history of Columbia's tiny University Hall, which since 1901 has accommodated a scant 1,700 spectators at many a dramatic Ivy League game. A new (but still small, by modern standards) gymnasium will house Lion teams next winter.

Historical note: Few if any sports have changed their images as radically through the years as basketball. When Princeton played Columbia in University Hall for the first time, 73 years ago, the home team won, 9 to 6.

Slow First Half. Actually, the home team wasn't doing much better in the first 20 minutes Saturday, managing only 15 points. Even the eventual victors had but 23, although they quickly ran away from the vastly outnumbered New Yorkers when action resumed. With just over four minutes of the final period gone, it was 33-19 and the margin grew steadily as time ran out.

Rimol closed out his career with one of his best back-to-back performances, adding 21 points against Columbia to the 20 he made at Cornell. His career total thus rose to 961, and the 39 more he needed to join the 11 other players who belong to the Tigers' 1,000-Point Club were denied him by a knee injury that benched him for three games in January.

Penn breezed to its fifth straight Ivy title, failing to become the third team to win all 14 league games when it was beaten by Brown at Providence. The Quakers will be at St. John's University in Queens Saturday to face Providence, 13th ranked nationally, in the first round of the NCAA Tournament.

Jadwin Gym was by passed as a playoff site for the second year in a row by NCAA officials. Having withheld use of the gym for high school wrestling championships to give the NCAA a last-minute choice, the University is expected to withdraw the availability of Jadwin for post-season basketball in the future.

PDS 5 TOPS STATE

Wins B Title. After a narrow, overtime win in the semi-finals last week, Princeton Day School knocked off the streaking Pennington School Saturday, 62-46, to win the Class B state prep school tournament. The victory gave the Panthers an 18-5 season record, the best in the school's history.

Pennington had won its eighth straight game, defeating Rutgers Prep, 67-55, to reach the finals. PDS had more trouble in its 52-49 defeat of Morristown-Beard. The Panthers trailed throughout the game until leading scorer Ron Webster hit a jump shot with 13 seconds left to send the game into overtime. A three-point play by Webster, a basket from Nick Brady and two free thrown by Evan Bash gave PDS the win.

That set the stage for the PDS-Pennington final. Coach Alan Taback's team was the last to defeat the Red Raiders.

"I want PDS bad," said Wayne Emme, the high scoring senior who directed the Pennington offense throughout the season.
But PDS apparently wanted Pennington worse. The differences were two: Pennington, particularly Emme, went cold offensively; and PDS received another outstanding effort from Webster, who scored 26 points. "I'd have to say Webster is one of the best prep school players in the state," said Taback after the game.
PDS also got crucial support from Bill Martin, who played less than half the game because of foul trouble but still managed 11 rebounds and 10 points on 4-for-6 shooting, and from Tom Dalrymple, 10 points on 5-for-7 shooting and 12 rebounds.

PDS Won Boards. Overall PDS outshot Pennington, 22-for-50 to 19-for-64, and outrebounded the Raiders as well, 48-19.
Emme, who entered the game with a 21-point average, was held to just two points as he completed only 1 of 12 shots. The scoring burden fell on his backcourt colleague, Jerry Eure, who scored 26 points. But only three other Pennington players joined Rure in the scoring column.

PDS broke on top for the rest of the game, 10-9, in the first quarter. That lead was extended to 17-9 in the second period. Five straight points by PDS with less than three minutes to play gave the Panthers a 57-42 lead and sealed off Pennington's chances

ON TO REGIONALS: Angelo Arcaro, 170 pound wrestler for PHS, placed second in the NJSIAA District 17 matches last week and will advance to the Regional matches this weekend at Hunterdon Central High School.

TWO FROM PHS SURVIVE
In District Mat Matches, Angelo Arcaro, 170-pound wrestler for Princeton High School, and Jeff Drummond, 188-pounder, both placed second Saturday in District 17 final round matches at Hunterdon Central High School in Flemington to advance to the regionals. First and second place finishers earned the right to compete in the NJSIAA Regionals Friday and Saturday, again at Hunterdon Central.
Princeton's Boh Zinsmeister, defending 148-pound district champion and seeded first in the same division this year, was eliminated in the semi-finals by Marty Short of Steinert, who won a 17-7 decision. PHS coach Tom Murray said that Zinsmeister was "totally flat" throughout the tournament. He had lost only one of 11 matches before entering the districts.

Drummond, unseeded, stunned everyone by pinning the 188-pound top seed Bill Clark from Ewing in his first match. Clark entered the match with a 12-2-1 record. In the finals, Drummond, who will enter West Point in the fall, lost a 4-1 decision to Bill Lentine of Hunterdon Central, the number two seed.
"Drummond wrestled very well all week," said Murray, who pointed out that Drummond gives away almost 15 pounds to every opponent. Drummond weighs 174. "He's never wrestled in his own weight class; he's always been caught in the middle," Murray said.

Arcaro suffered a heart-rending setback when the official called him for stalling and awarded his opponent, Mike Burton of North Hunterdon, a point with one second left to go. The point gave Burton, the top seed who entered the match with a 13-3 record, a 5-4 decision. Arcaro, who had defeated Burton last year, but had lost a close decision to him this year, had a 13-2 record.
"It was totally illegal," steamed Murray. "There was nothing in the book that he had issued a first warning," he said, which is required before a point can be awarded. Murray said that the official then went to the three other referees standing by and asked if he had first issued

Arcaro's father and brother protested so vehemently that an official ordered them removed from the gym.
PHS sophomore Vince Ader finished third when he decided North Hunterdon's Mike Farrell. Dave Robinson, 101-pounder for PHS who entered the event seeded third with a 12-2 record, finished third, as did Zinsmeister. Mike Holcombe, PHS co-captain, finished fourth in the 122-pound class. He was seeded fourth.

THERE'S BOUND TO BE AN OCCASIONAL "NO"

Everyone wants a new phone installed as soon as possible. And we do our best. But when we get a request at 11 a.m. for installation that same day . . . ordinarily we have to say no.
Our operators also have to say no occasionally. For example, it wouldn't make much sense to pay for an unlisted number if anyone could get it just by calling directory assistance. So we have to say no.
And New Jersey Bell employees don't like saying no. It just doesn't fit in with the way we like to get things done. Ordinarily our attitude is think yes, say yes, act yes. After all, our job is service, first and foremost.

So if you have a question on your bill, or want some information on extension phones, or whatever . . . please call us. And if we do have to say no, we promise you this. You'll know the reason why.
We want you to get the most out of your phone service.

THREE TIE FOR LEAD
In Adult Basketball, Ivy Inn and Kingston W & L both won to tie Conte's Bar for first place as regular season play ended in the Adult Basketball League.

PMC also triumphed to deadlock El-De's and Perks for fourth place. A series of games to determine the league champion and settle the four playoff spots is being played this week.

Ivy (8-2) broke quickly out to a commanding 24-8 first quarter advantage, then went flat as the determined Hawks narrowed the margin to nine points at halftime. Mike Meservey's basket as the second half began cut Ivy's lead to 38-31, but the powerful Ivy front court of Houston Hinson (22), Mike Maguire (17), and Art Midgett (12) steadily wore down the smaller Hawks and Ivy pulled away to score its sixth straight win by a convincing 85-58 count. Kevin Murphy scored 15 and Ian White notched 14 for the losers.

Kingston Wine & Liquor (8-2) joined Ivy and Conte's at the top by mauling the Teachers, 101-61. Kingston's fast breaking attack constantly outran the Teachers for easy scores as the barmen completely dominated the game, scoring over 20 points in every period. Bruce Coburn fired home 36 to pace Kingston's attack, while Tony Watson (21), Rick Miller (14), and Bob Wylie (14) also hit for double figures. Cliff Carter's 17 and Joe Deifenback's 16 led the Teachers.

Princeton Medical Center (7-3) gained a share of fourth place and a chance for the playoffs by outgunning the Nets, 81-50. Ron Brown's rebounding and 10 points helped PMC spurt to a 20-9 lead after one quarter, and the hospital workers were never threatened.

Brown finished with a season high 31 points and Dennis Wilson added 26 to run his league-leading scoring total to 276 (30.7 avg.). Wilson, a former North Carolina all-state player, netted 20 or more points in every game he played. For the Nets, who finished their season at 0-10, Steve Casey tallied 16 and little Duncan Randolph had 12.

Kingston W & L was scheduled to face the winner of Monday's Conte's-Ivy Inn clash for the regular season title this Wednesday at 7:45 with PMC against the El-De's-Perks winner in a fourth place elimination at 9.

First-round playoff action is set for next Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday with the regular season victors meeting the fourth-place winners and the second place team battling the third place club in best two-of-three series. All contests are played at the Princeton High School Gym, with first games beginning at 7:45.

PDS SKATERS SUNK
First Losing Record. After playing its best hockey of the season the weekend before Princeton Day School went flat last Friday against the Wissahickon Hockey Club in a game that had been postponed several weeks before. PDS lost, 5-2, to finish the season with a 6-8 record—the first losing hockey record in the history of Princeton Day or Princeton Country Day.

"We just couldn't come up with the tremendous teamwork that characterized our play in the tournament," said Coach Harry Rulon-Miller. His team was hampered by the loss of goalie John Boyd and high scorer Doug Haitch.

Hockey Club Captures League Title Again

Superb teamwork and depth gave the Princeton Hockey Club to its second consecutive title in the Winter Club Ice Hockey League Sunday, as it whipped the Bedford Bears, 4-1, in the championship game at Baker Rink.

Combining an aggressive defense with constant and effective forechecking the victors controlled the puck for a large majority of the 60 minutes of playing time. Only some fine goaltending by Bedford goalie Mike Hanson kept the game close for two and a half periods.

Until a couple of insurance scores midway through the final stanza, Princeton had to be content with just single tallies in each of the first two periods.

Steve Cook produced the first, when he stole the puck in center ice, and skated in alone on Hanson and scored. In the second period, Cook again stole the puck and passed it in front of the next to Paul Macnamara, who flipped it in.

Princeton threatened to score on numerous occasions, but Hanson prevailed until the Cook to MacNamara combination clicked again midway through the final period. The final tally was put home by Pony Fraker from right in front of the net on a pass from his brother, Ford, Bobby O'Connor also picked up an assist.

Aubrey Houston, in the nets for the winners, had no trouble handling the Bedford shots, but lost his bid for a shutout late in the game when the losers scored after a scramble in front of the net.

One Loss. The triumph capped a fine season for the Princeton club, which won its division for the third straight year with a 5-1 mark, losing only to Wissahickon, 5-4, in its opening game.

The club's success over the past two years has been mainly due to the fact that it has no weak links. Goaltending, defense and the three lines share equally in the credit, especially the balance of the lines. The second and third keep almost the same pressure on the opposition as the first, and this becomes extremely tough for weekend defensemen on the other side to handle.

The regular practice sessions produce teamwork other squads in the seven-team league find difficult to match. The Bedford Bears were rarely able to get together for practice sessions, and it was readily apparent in their style of play.

Members of the squad include: first line, John and Steve Cook and Paul MacNamara, second line, Ford and Pony Fraker and Bobby O'Connor; third line, Nick Hare, Doug Walmsley, John Payne and Scott Reed; defense, Bill Schluter, Larry Sanford, Tom Rawls, Tom and Joe Budny and Bob Smyth, and goaltenders Aubrey Houston and Joe Wright.

Steve Cook led in scoring with 14 goals, followed by MacNamara with nine, Ford Fraker six, John Cook, five, and O'Connor and Pony Fraker, four apiece.

both of whom were sick with flu.

Rulon-Miller was encouraged by the play in the net of Richard Gordon, who stopped 27 shots. "He's next year's goaltender," said the coach. Cole Harrop and Murray Wilmerding scored for the Panthers.

"I've tried to end each season with the tournament," said Rulon-Miller, acknowledging the difficulty of keeping his skaters sharp after their narrow, double-overtime loss and then upset win in the PDS tournament. "This game leaves us with a sour taste."

Borough Police

The first Annual March of Dimes Basketball Tournament sponsored by the Princeton PBA 130 Friday at the Princeton High School gym was a huge success both financially—more than $1200 was raised—and emotionally: the Borough won a rousing 40-38 victory over West Windsor in the final round to take the championship.

The Borough had advanced to the final round with a 24-16 victory over arch-rival Township, while West Windsor had defeated East Windsor, 42-19, in the evening's first game. In a consolation contest, East Windsor captured third place when it defeated a tired Township team, 21-13 in overtime.

The Borough's Tom Michaud was named the tournament's most valuable player. He scored a game-high 19 points in the title game, including 13 of his team's 17 points in the second half. All games consisted of 10-minute halves.

players and sharpest Offredo had eight for the uniforms, began the title Township, and Potts, Morton, game as if it were to crush the Funk, and Cromwell added two each.

"I wasn't worried, I knew we had it but I don't think Mr. Funk should have jumped up like that," commented Procaccino. "It was very unsportmanlike and I think he should have been hit with a T...but like I say, green always comes to the top."

Kerry Klink finally brought the Borough even at 17 with two free throws with 1:45 left in the half. He was a perfect six-for-six from the foul line in the first half and led the Borough in scoring with 8.

Michaud's sharpshooting in the second half kept the Borough in the game as the team's battled evenly. With 1:01 to go, the score was 37-36, Windsor five was ahead, 13-11. There was no more scoring until Crowsell's tap in with 16 seconds left tied it at 13. It was the Township's last gasp—literally. The two-minute overtime was all East Windsor. It began with a quick basket by Jimmy Solarski and a steal by Brian Campbell, and the victors were off on an eight-point streak.

Cream on the Top. "Beating West Windsor really put the cream on it," said Borough coach Ralph Procaccino, "because we're used to beating the Township, but West Windsor has a good club. I think Kerry Klink gave us a big lift when we needed it."

Klink had 11 points while Bill Fitch and Bob Mucciarelli added four each. Barry Hibbs and John Hencken led West Windsor with 12 and eight points, Hibbs connecting for 10 in the first half.

Borough-Township. The annual heated but friendly match between the Borough and Township was a curious game. Who could imagine Michaud and Mucciarelli, the Borough's big guns, being held to four points each, or the Borough going more than six and a half minutes without scoring a point. It happened.

Jerry Offredo gave the Township its only lead when he scored the game's first basket. However, Klink scored six points, Mucciarelli his four and Michaud, Fitch and Pete Hanely two each as the Borough took a seemingly safe 16-8 lead at the half. Offredo had six and Harry Morton two to account for all Township points.

In the second half, the Borough threw up shot after shot but all it hit was iron. Nothing went in. Nor did it convert a single foul as Klink, who had all five chances, missed all five, some of them 1-and-1 situations. Procaccino began to squirm on the bench.

Meanwhile, Offredo, Al Funk and Billy Potts scored for the Township and when Dave Cromwell dropped in a foul shot with 3:00 left to make the score 18-15, it was more than player-coach Funk could bear: he jumped up and shouted at Procaccino: "Your string's going to be broken, Ralph!"

Finally, a tap-in by Fitch of a missed shot broke the Borough's drought with 3:36 left. Michaud hit a long one, Klink scored and then iced it when he added two more on a steal by Mucciarelli. Klink led the Borough with 10, Fitch, Michaud and Mucciarelli had four each and Hanely two.

had six for the losers; Frank Bocciafuso had one.

Hencken and Joe Mazotas with 14 and 13 points led West Windsor to its easy opening-game win.

The four referees who worked the games—Larry McHugh, Larry Ivan, Jake Bartolino and Jeff Hewitson donated their time. Sgt. Jack Petrone of the Township, who handled the mike commentary, presented the trophies to the winners.

Chairman of the successful event—both stands in the PHS gym were crowded—was Ptl. Bernard Lenhardt of the Borough. It was a big night for the March of Dimes Fund which will receive all proceeds; for the Borough; for the irrepressible Procaccino and perhaps most of all for Mrs. Procaccino, who said, "Thank heavens it's over; now he'll be fit to live with for the next couple of weeks."

Germaine Monteil
...for the woman who knows the importance of caring for her skin.

For years, scientists have had a promising theory that the natural soluble collagen in the skin gives the complexion its youthful, supple appearance. But as we age, the collagen in our skin becomes less soluble. If collagen could be made soluble and stabilized in a skin cream...it might be absorbed into the skin and really do something...even about wrinkles.

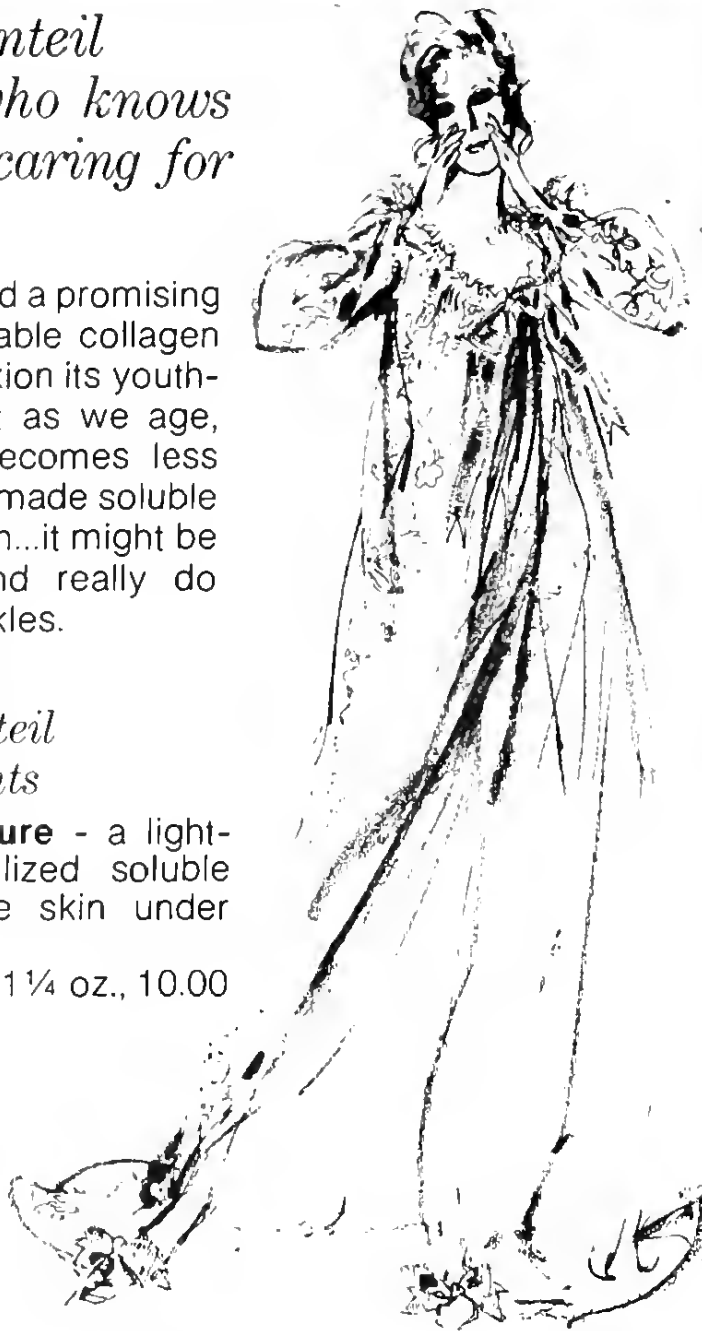

Germaine Monteil
proudly presents

Supplegen All Day Moisture - a light-textured cream with stabilized soluble collagen to moisturize the skin under makeup.
